

English houses

Made by Nadezhda Penkova

✓ Detached

✓ Semi-detached (duplex)

✓ Terraced (rowhouses)

✓ Flats (apartments)

A house not joined to another house

Two houses joined together

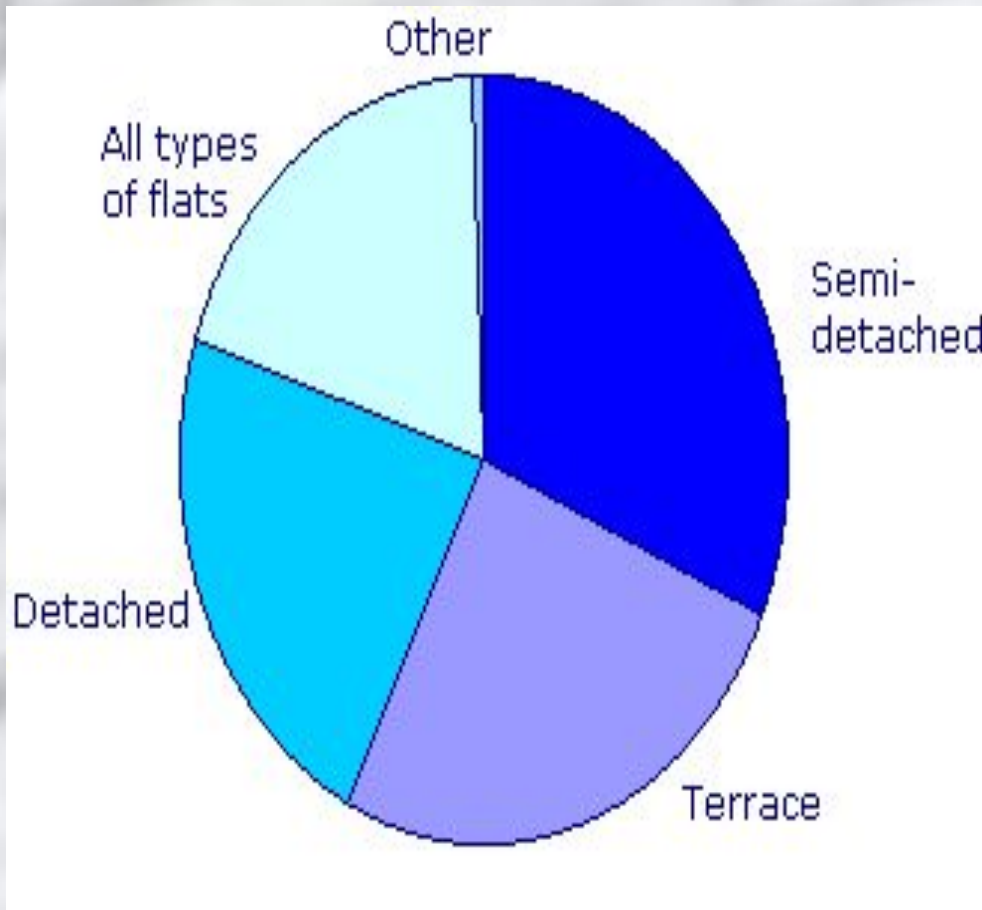

Several houses joined together

Blocks of flats (apartments)

Other types of houses

- Bungalows
- Cottages
- Mansions
- Palaces

□ all on one level;

□ a verandah where people can sit or work outdoors, but under a shady roof.

- one main storey,
- a second, lower storey of bedrooms under the roof upstairs.
- Cottages are usually found in villages Cottages are usually found in villages or in the countryside.

A mansion has:

- two storeys and sometimes more;
- beautiful architecture;
- picturesque gardens;
- rooms which are not found in ordinary houses, such as a drawing room, a ballroom, a library and a music room.
- Mansions often need servants to help keep them in order.

What are houses built from?

Bricks

Timber

Stone

“Pre-fabricated” parts

Roofs

Thatched roofs

Tiled roofs

Guess

- | | |
|---|-----------------------|
| □ a house that is very grand | A palace |
| □ A house found in the village | A cottage |
| □ A house not joined to another house | A detached house |
| □ Two houses joined together | A semi-detached house |
| □ Several houses joined together | A terraced house |
| □ A house where all rooms on one level | A bungalow |
| □ A house often needs servants to help keep it in order | A mansion |

References