

CHICAGO

As every road had once led to Rome, every road in America leads to Chicago.

For many centuries
before Chicago was the home of the red-skins Indian tribes.

- Chicago has three million people and is the third-biggest city in the United States. It grew up quickly.

The city of Chicago was founded in 1833 in North America.

Today, Chicago is known as the Windy City. Walking around it you might suspect that Chicago got this nickname from the winds off Lake Michigan. But the true origin of the saying comes from politics.

Chicago is famous for its architecture, culture, and business

It's no wonder that President Barack and Michelle Obama – and nearly three million
others – call Chicago home.

Chicago's "Eye" sculpture

Chicago is on Lake Michigan, which has 26 miles of beaches.

THE END