

National Competitive Advantage: Porter's Diamond

World Economics Department
Isaeva N.A.

Why do some nations succeed and others fail in international competition?

- Factor Endowments
- Demand Conditions
- Related and supporting industries
- Firm strategy, structure, and rivalry

Factor endowments

- A nation's position in factors of production such as skilled labor or the infrastructure necessary to compete in a given industry

Demand conditions

- The nature of home demand for the industry's product and service

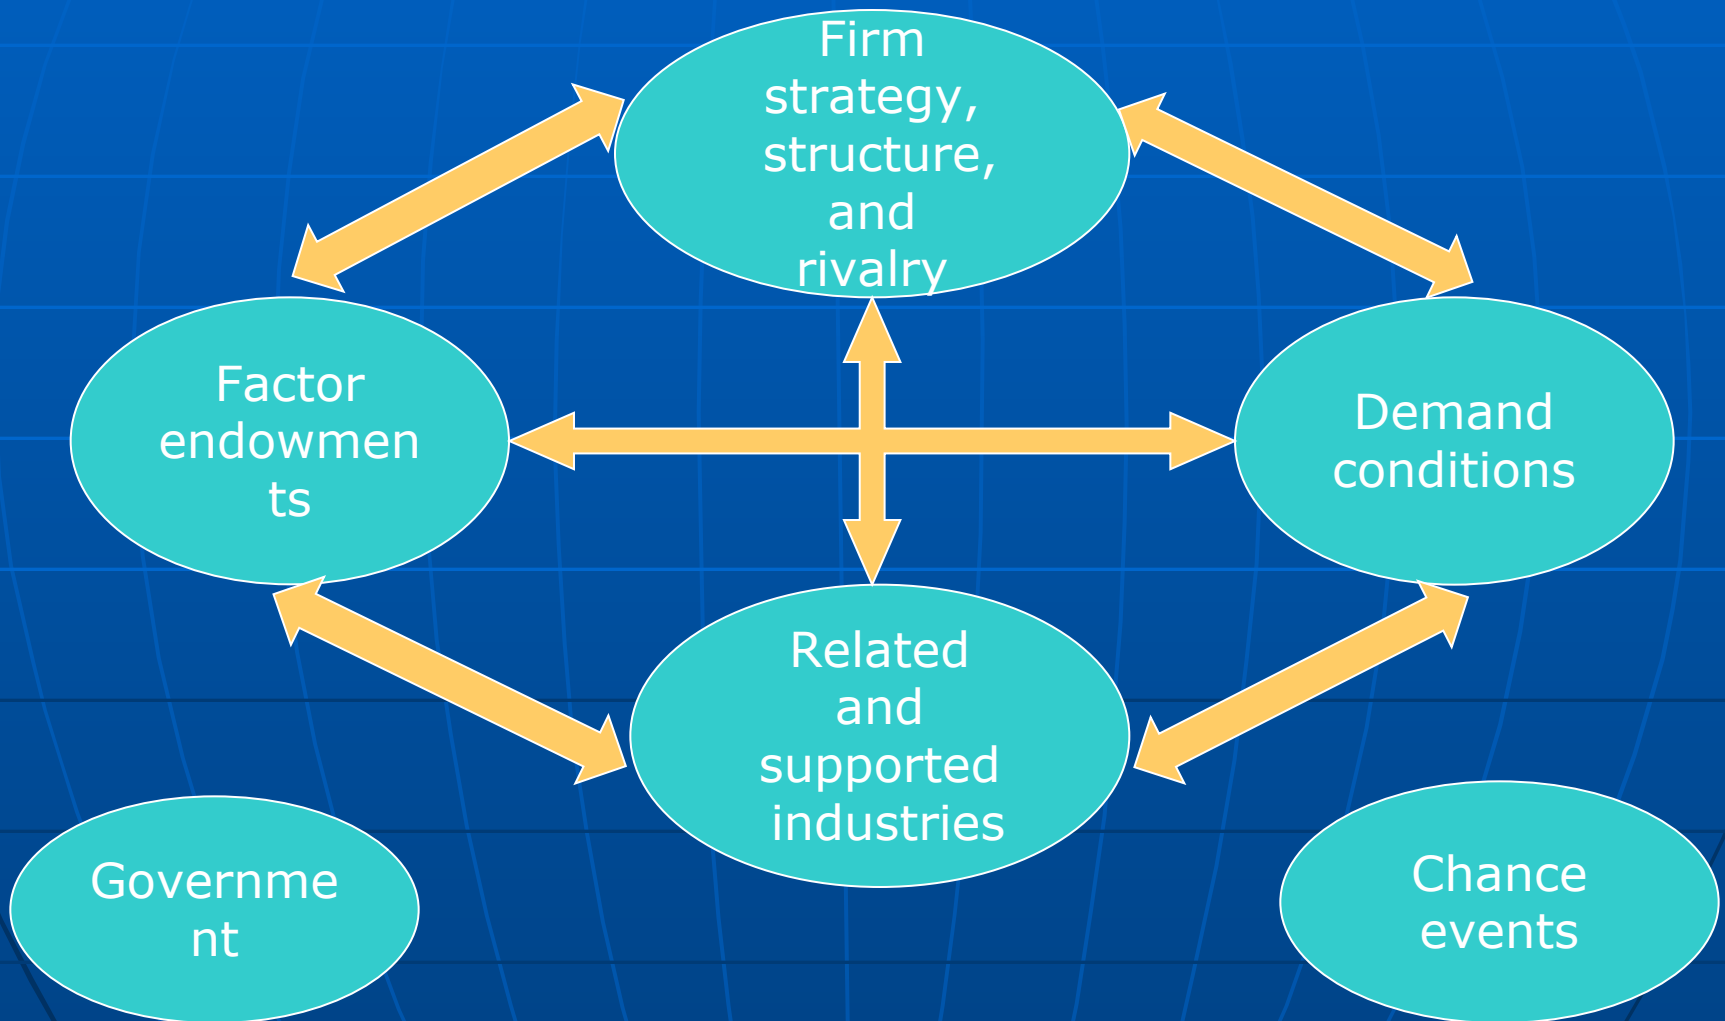

Related and supported industries

- The presence or absence in a nation of supplier industries and related industries that are internationally competitive

Firm strategy, structure, and rivalry

- The conditions in the nation governing how companies are created, organized, and managed and the nature of domestic rivalry

Determinants of National Competitive Advantage: Porter's Diamond

Thank you for your attention.