

The PUNKS... who are they?

The Punks

The punk appeared like musical movement in London in the mid of 1970s. The Punk comes from American English and is used to describe someone who is immoral. Soon in late 1970s the punk style came to its end as the sportswear came into fashion.

They were opposed to the values of a money-based society. The original form of the punk was to express the capitalistic social classes, with its own means and concepts. On the other hand there was another form, looking for the free itself, carrying its moral and tradition. The demonstrations were very popular. They despises (презирать) the fashion and medical manipulations. They questioned everything that was established. They had the motto "DO IT YOURSELF". They critic o the police and the military institutions

During 80s Punk like other independent musics appeared. It was populized. Their protest was expressed in loud music and strange clothes. The punks sing songs about anarchy and Destruction using bad language. Their music is fast, loud and tuneless.

The Punks usually have pale face
And unhealthy look. They have brightly
Dyed spiky hair and a lot of tattoos
And piercings. They also enjoy wearing T-shirts with aggressive slogans.

Black tight trousers, leather jackets
And boots are popular with punks.
Very often they customize their clothes with pins.
