One of the largest collections of rarities on the planet. The British Museum was founded in 1753 and reflects the history of mankind, literally, from the first humans and to modern events. The collection of the British Museum regularly expands at the expense of private collections, so you have to open branches and new locations for shows. In addition, the Museum often organizes itself and excavations in different parts of the world, engaged in scientific activities.

Another symbol of London along with big Ben have a prominent place on the tourist postcards. Unusual appearance made him instantly recognizable. It is located on the Thames, straight into Central London, and it received the name thanks to the tower, which is located on the North side of the bridge. Tower in the Gothic style give the bridge a special flavor and charm. On the towers there is a pedestrian galleries that attract tourists.

The of England is treated with great respect. The main Palace of the country, the place where for more than 40 years the Queen perform their duties, receives foreign dignitaries, signed the paper — in General, working for the good of the United Kingdom. Only in 1993, at Buckingham Palace, began to let visitors, but now their number is limited and visits are possible as part of guided tours

Amazing attraction is one of the largest Ferris wheels on the planet. Also very interesting to look down upon such an interesting city like London. The London eye, so named for its original appearance, features 32 transparent capsules, each of which is placed on 25 man. The number of people wishing to ride is so great that the London authorities have abandoned plans to dismantle the Ferris wheel.
