

An aerial, high-angle photograph of London, England, showing the River Thames, the Houses of Parliament, Big Ben, and the London Bridge. The image is slightly hazy and has a muted color palette. The title "Faces of London" is overlaid in large, bold, red text across the center of the image.

Faces of London

Buckingham Palace

Buckingham Palace

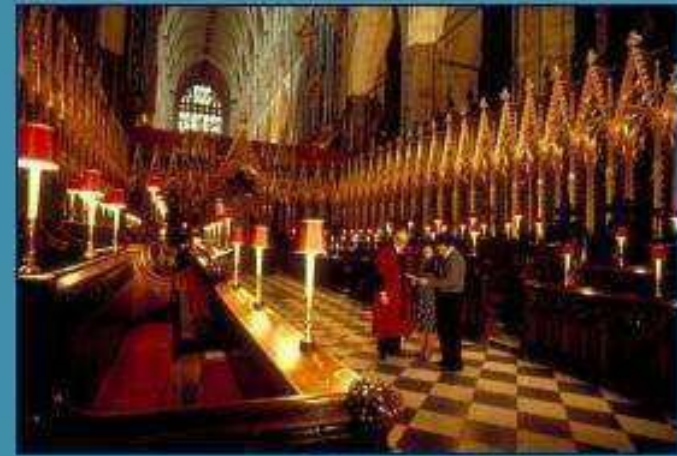

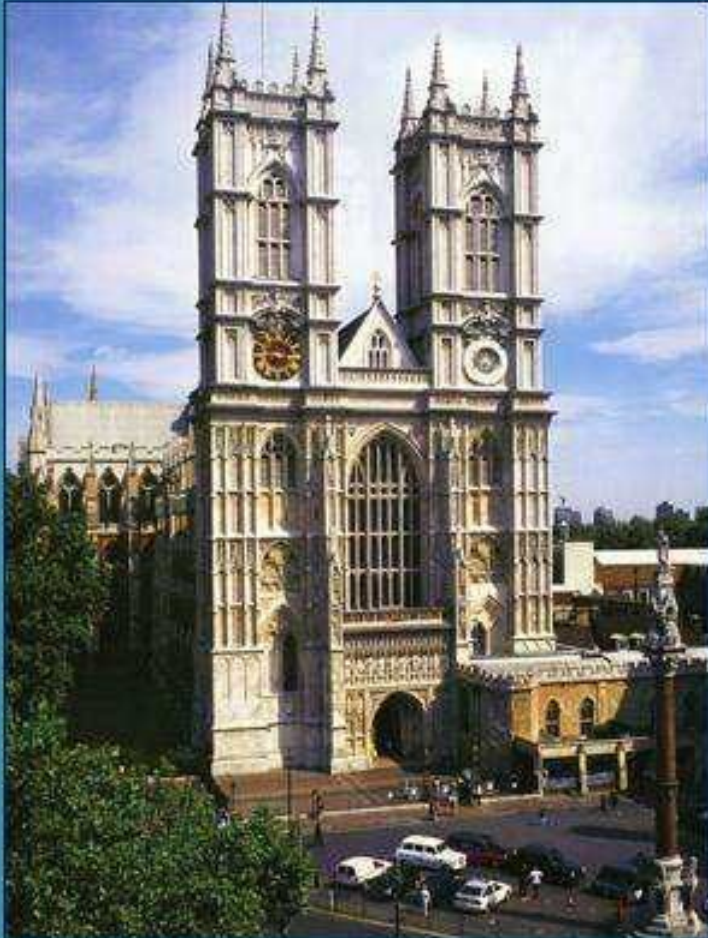

Buckingham Palace is the official London residence of the Queen and the Royal family. When the Queen is at the residence the flag is flying on top of Buckingham Palace.

In front of the Palace there is Victoria Memorial built in 1911.

Westminster Abbey

Westminster Abbey

Westminster Abbey is a symbol of London. It was built in 1065 by King Edward. The coronation of all British kings and queens takes place there. Some famous English people are buried there.

The houses of Parliament

Originally, Big Ben is a tower. It's one of the highest towers of Westminster Palace.

Although Big Ben is very popular with spectators, nobody is allowed inside the tower. But if you are lucky, you can hear how the bell strikes.
