

Halloween

Halloween takes place on October 31
on Allhallow's Eve.

The pumpkin is a symbol of this festival.
It drives off evil spirits.

"Monster Mash" by Bobby Pickett is an informal hymn of Halloween.

On this day parties are held and people put on suits of the terrible creatures and monsters.

Children go from house to house and try to get sweeties with the phrase "Trick or treat".

Fortune-telling are widely spread on Halloween.

At night children and teenagers tell each other horror stories and legends.

The most popular legend is about Bloody Mary in a mirror.

Television broadcasts a lot of horror films.

Thank you for your
