Wig Wags and the black stuff.

The other day, some men came to our street. They worked and worked. My master Paul said they were making a fine new street. They had big machines to help them with the work. I wanted to see the men. I ran out and sniffed and sniffed. I ran all around. The men liked me. They talked to me.

After a while, the men put some black stuff on our street. I had never seen that stuff before. I sniffed it. I put my nose in it. The black stuff stayed on my nose. I put my front feet into it. I pulled and pulled. I could not get away from that black stuff. I could not run. I did not like that at all, so I barked and barked.

At last, Paul came down the street. When he saw me he called and called. I never saw him look so frightened. He ran to help me.
