What is a subculture?

Any group within a larger complex culture

who have interests that vary from those of the mainstream culture, have their own beliefs, value systems, fashion and music.

Nonofficial organasations.

Hacker.

They are the 'wizards' of the computer community; people with a deep understanding of how their computers work, and can do things with them that seem magical to express themselves. They do not protect against their parents.

Punks

Young people who dress in a shocking way to express their identity. They have brightly coloured hair and wear metal chains. The music is aggressive. They reject everything.

Ravers

These are the folks who use computer-made, synthesized music, and drugs to create massive all-night dance parties in empty ware-houses. They like to be in a collective. They want to try out all sort of options and are thought to be violent and rebellious.

Hippies.

The good old times for most of our hippies were the 1970s. Their ideals include love, peace, freedom of self-expression, and nonconformity to society's rules. It is not so difficult to look like a traditional hippie: a pair of worn-out blue jeans, long hair tied with bit of string and a couple of decorative chains. This is often used by drug sellers. Today hippies are more socially active. They set up environmental groups and join charity projects. They don't conform to society's standards and support a liberal attitude and lifestyle. They accept other people as they are. They always want to change the world for the best.

Bikers.

All persons who ride 2 or 3 wheeled motorised vehicles and who identify themselves with a particular subculture. They usually wear leather jackets and army boots. Bike subculture appeared in Russia with the appearance of Moscow motorbike club 'Night Wolves'. Officially it was founded on May 31, 1989. But the core of it appeared in the early 80s. A biker in Russia prefers a heavy bike like Harley Davidson and a leather jacket. But besides a real biker has his own values and beliefs as bikers of the USA have.

Officially registered organisations.

There are many organizations. Some of them are dangerous for society. They are: punks, hippies and ravers. But there are organizations which help the society. They are :volunteers, environmentalists and scouts. The values of environmentalists are to help nature, to change the world for the best. They do not protect against their parents but they protest against organizations that pollute nature. They wear certain badges. They are very useful.

Environmentalists

They are concerned about want to improve or protect nature. Usually they join Greenpeace, Friends of the Earth and the like. They prefer non-violent direct actions to solve ecological problems.

Young farmers.

People who in their club get practical experience in agriculture, home crafts and country life generally.

Scouts.

Members of one of the leading youth organizations in Britain. They are trained to use their initiative, learn to use practical skills. Their moral values are loyalty and responsibility.

Volunteers.

These people do voluntary work in the community, help needy people, may join an organisation like the Samaritans.

Youth organizations in Russia .

In Russia cultural groupings do not differ from foreign, everywhere there are bikers, punks and others.

The grown-up's opinion.

The elderly people say that their lives have been made miserable by young people out on the street late at night. They said that all those groups or subcultures were awful, because all of their members were violent. The middle-aged people think that violence is the symptom of problem in the society. They said that teens hadn't thought much about their future life, wanted to live now. For their opinion teens want to be a fan of something or someone is a hobby, to be a hippie, for example, it's a life.

What do think about different subcultures?

- What is your opinion?
- Use the phrases:
- I think, to my mind, in my opinion
- Are you for.....?
