Okhotsk village located on the northern coast of the Okhotsk Sea. This is one of the oldest settlements of the Far East. More in 1674 Cossack cabin was founded here. At the beginning of the 18th century it was built the port, which became the main base of the Siberian military flotilla guarding the coast and the islands of the Pacific Ocean. In 1783 Okhotsk was granted city status

Pass years, decades, centuries, and the main street of Okhotsk remains the Central site of an ancient village, where "in the days of the celebrations and people's troubles" attracts people to festivals, demonstrations, rallies and marches. And today she is the most beautiful and wide streets-Lenin street.

Belolipskaya Street .

Konstantin V. Belolipsky was born in Leningrad. He was admitted to the party, and after the Central rate of the OGPU he was sent to Okhotsk by the head of the interior Ministry. The situation in the Okhotsk was difficult: the Japanese were leaked on the Okhotsk coast. Summer was caught a Japanese schooner, and fall arrested fugitive criminal.

In 1936, the bandits robbed the store and escaped in the forest. Belolipsky organized the pursuit. The bandits were detained. Belolipsky accompanying a wounded comrade froze before they could only 600m from the housing. Grateful ohatchee remember him, and modest signs on the homes named in honor of the hero of the street will forever cherish the memory of the security officer K. V. Belolipsky

Vostretsov Street

- The name of Stepan Sergeyevich Vostretsov, a wonderful commander, the most venerable on the Okhotsk coast. In the same village there is a monument to the famous commander. Also in his honor named street. He freed the Okhotsk and Ayan from the whites, was 4 times awarded the order of red banner.

Karpinsky street

On arrival in 1925 he was appointed the representative of the OGPU and border detachment, which was part of the struggle with counterrevolutionary forces and protecting the revolutionary achievements of the workers of the coast
