It is very good when there are lots of icons in the country. You know, thousands of icons can represent Russia, but we know practically all of them. Now I would like to tell about little-known centre of sea biology called Moskvarium.

Moskvarium is a very big and nice building. It has been around from 2015 and it is about 53 thousands km² In the total volume it has 25 thousands liters of water.

Moskvarium includes 80 aquariums, 12 thousands of sea animals and 500 types of fish. Also you can swim with dolphins and see awesome water show in it. I'm sure it is very interesting to visit and enjoy it! As for me I would like to visit Moskvarium very much.

The background is a lush, abstract composition of green and blue tones. It features numerous translucent water droplets of various sizes, some with bright highlights, scattered across the frame. On the right side, there are dark green, glossy leaves with prominent veins, some appearing to be part of a branch. The overall effect is fresh and natural, with a soft, glowing light source from the left that creates a gradient from light green to a deeper blue-green.
