

Charlie and The Chocolate Factory

“Charlie and the Chocolate Factory” is a children’s book, written by Roald Dahl. It was published in 1964.

Roald Dahl

Roald Dahl
was a famous British novelist, short story writer, poet and screenwriter.

The story was originally inspired by Roald Dahl's experience of chocolate companies during his schooldays. Cadbury would often send test packages to the schoolchildren in exchange for their opinions on the new products.

It's an adventure story about Charlie Bucket. He and his family live in poverty. So Charlie get chocolate once a year oh his birthday.

Once Willy Wonka, the owner of the Chocolate Factory, decided to hide five golden tickets in his chocolate bars. Everybody, who will find it, will have a chance to visit an amazing Willy Wonka's Factory.

One day Charlie finds the golden ticket in the Wonka's bar and becomes the fifth and the last winner.

All winners enter the Chocolate Factory and adventures begin.

There are different temptations, which are aimed at identifying the most unsophisticated child.

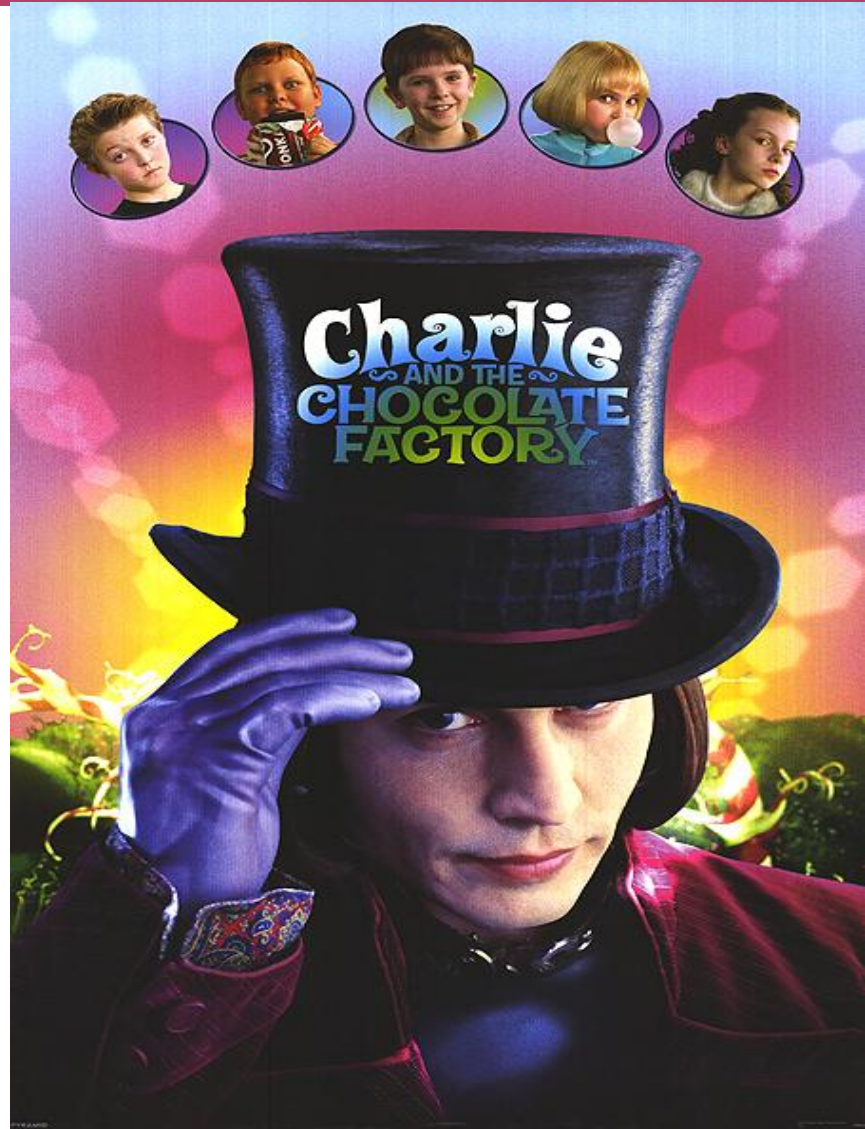

- I won't give the ending away! What I will say is that the book shows an incredible Willy Wonka's world, full of miracles.

*"Everyone ready? Come on then! Here we go!"
He trotted off rapidly down the corridor with the tails of his plum-coloured velvet coat flapping behind him..."*

There is also the film, called like this,
where Johnny Depp
as Willy Wonka stars.
It's worth watching!
