

Conan Doyle

1. Occupation

2. Family

3. House

4. Characteristics

Occupation

Conan Doyle was an English writer. Became a doctor. For fun, he wrote the first detective stories about the detective-fan of Sherlock Holmes, which provoked readers sudden interest. In 1891, Conan Doyle made the final decision to become a professional writer and moved to London.

Family

His father Charles Doyle, artist and architect. His mother Marry Doyle, had a passion for books and was the main narrator in the family.

Unfortunately, father Arthur was a chronic alcoholic, and so the family sometimes lived in misery.

House

Conan Doyle was born in 1859 in the capital of Scotland, Edinburgh on Picardie place. In the fall of 1929 he sent in the last tour in Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway. He was already sick with Angina Pectoris. Arthur Conan Doyle died on Monday, July 7, 1930, surrounded by his family.

Characteristics

He was described as a man of the highest morals. He was athletic, brave .