

What is it?

“You stay in my house while I stay in yours”.

Home exchange, also known as house swapping, is a mean of travel accommodation, when two parties agree to swap their homes for a set period of time.

Home Exchange Types

- The most popular is simultaneous home exchange, where two members of a home exchange website trade their homes.
- A hospitality exchange, where exchangers take turns welcoming each other into their homes at a definite time.
- Weekend getaways is for people who are able to work away from home and exchange their houses for the weekends.
- Long-term swaps is for people who want to exchange their houses for a long period of time.

Why is it comfortable?

- It's cheaper than to live at the hotel.
- You'll learn more about culture of other countries (especially if you'll use hospitality exchange).
- You can communicate with people from all over the world and learn more about the place where you'll stay.
- You don't need to buy a tour. Just buy tickets.

Some sites that have lists of home exchange clubs

- Geenee .A beautiful website with Excellent worldwide coverage.
- Global Home Exchange. Excellent website with worldwide coverage. You pay for listing your home but can search their listings for free.
- Home Base Holidays. Located in London, England.
- Homelink International. Worldwide. The largest home exchange service with over 15,000 members spread over 50 countries.
- ExchangeHomes.com. Worldwide. They are one of the largest and most respected home exchange clubs around.

How to choose the house?

- Read the description of the house attentively.

- Discuss all details with the owner of the house.

- Ask more questions about the area which is near with the house.

- Learn all points of contract.

Our choice

What will you choose?

Thank you for your attention

