

7th form

Amur Leopard and other animals close to becoming extinct

Where does Amur leopard live?

- It lives in the forests of the Far East in southeastern Russia and in northeastern China.

Why is Amur leopard wanted alive?

- Amur leopard is almost an extinct animal. In 2007 only 19–26 wild Amur leopards were estimated to survive.

What other animals are dying out on our planet?

Javan Rhinoceros

Indonesia and Vietnam

Number remaining: fewer than 60

Cross River Gorilla

Nigeria and Cameroon

Number remaining: fewer than 300

Sumatran Tiger

Sumatra, in Indonesia

Number remaining: fewer than 600

Golden-Headed Langur

Vietnam

Number remaining: fewer than 70

Black-footed Ferret

North American Great Plains

Number remaining: about 1,000

Borneo Pygmy Elephant

Northern Borneo

Number remaining: about 1,500

Giant Panda

China, Burma, Vietnam

Number remaining: fewer than 2,000

Polar Bear

The circumpolar Arctic

Number remaining: fewer than 25,000

Mekong Giant Catfish

Mekong region of Southeast Asia

Number remaining: hundreds

- Learn about endangered species in your area
- Visit a national wildlife park or other open space
- Make your home wildlife friendly
- Plant native plants in your yard
- Slow down when driving
- Never buy products made from threatened or endangered species
- Protect places where animals live

What can we do to save animals from extinction?