

Charles Darwin

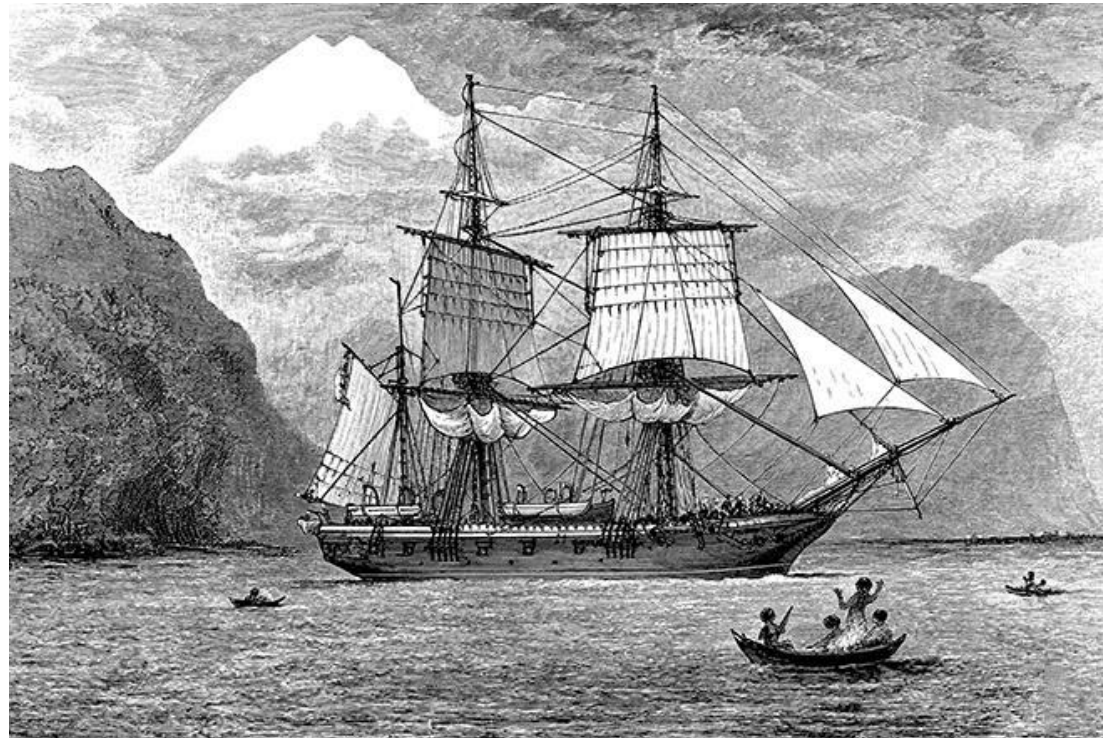

Charles Robert Darwin

12 February 1809 – 19 April 1882

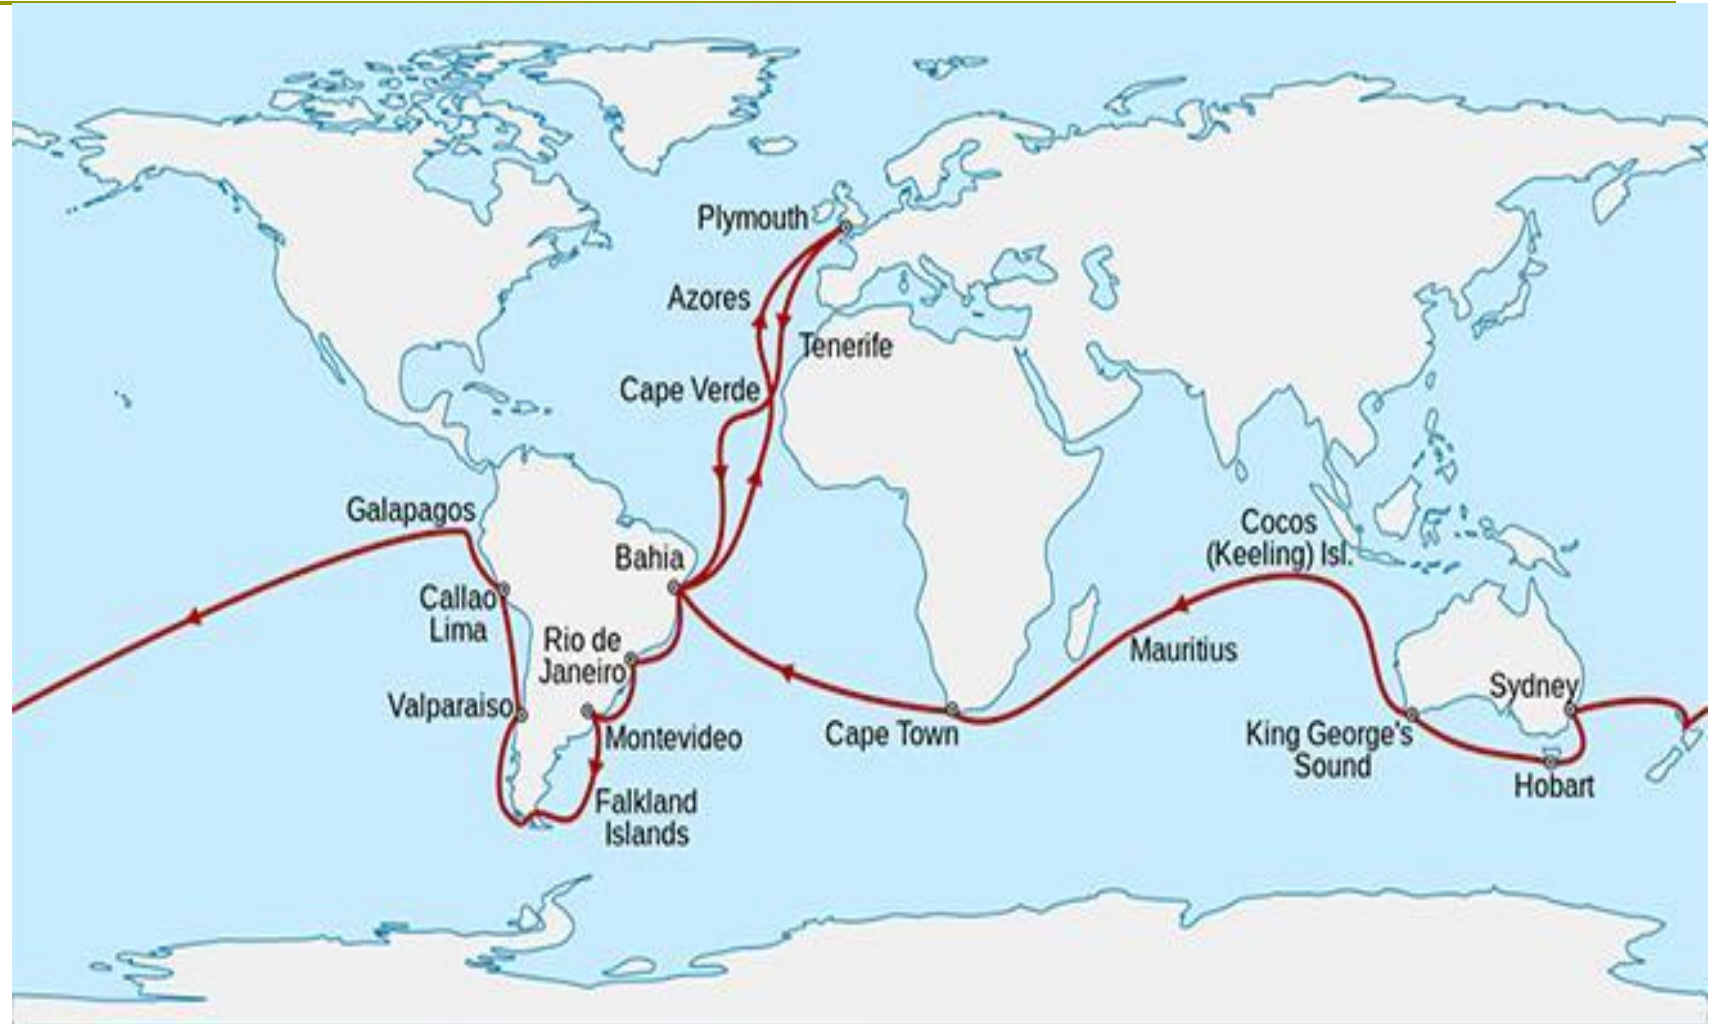

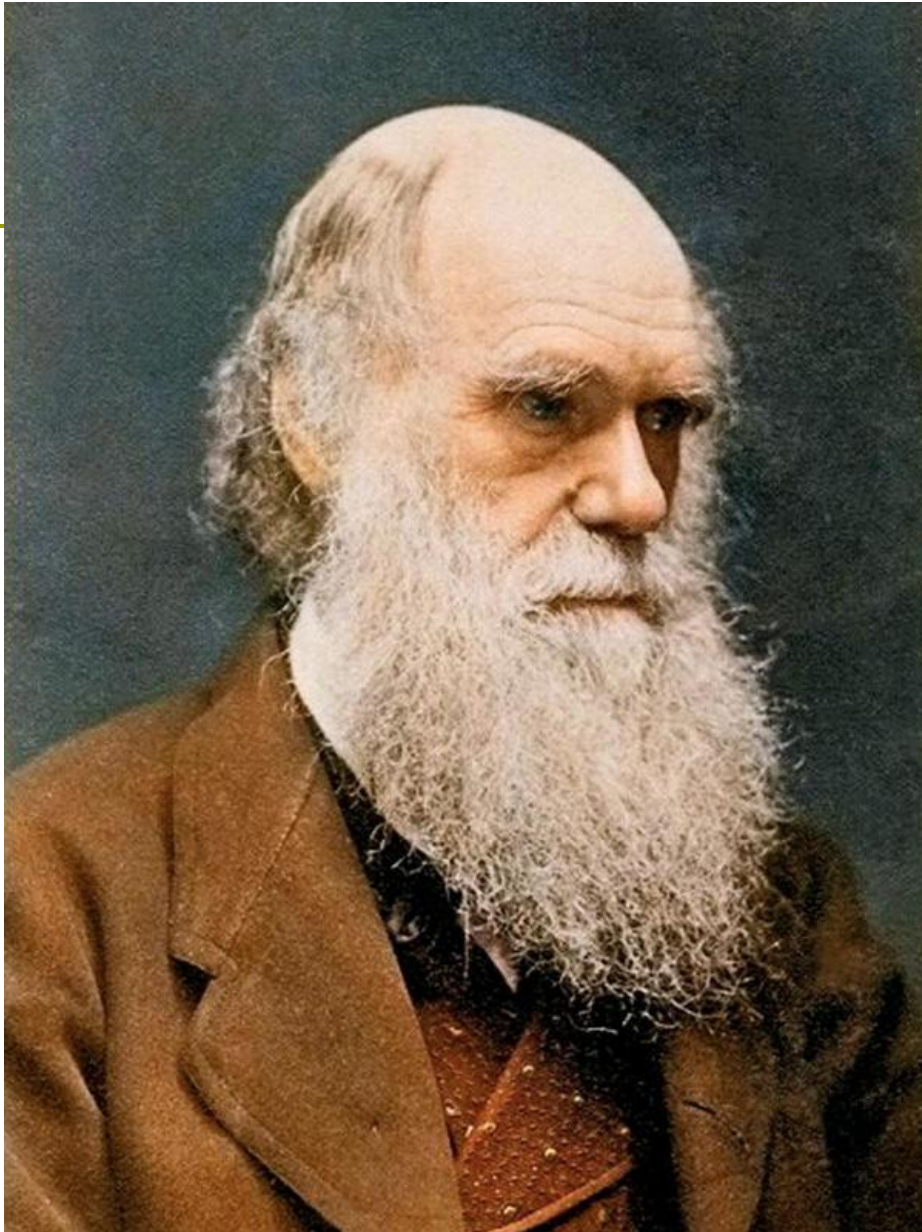

- Darwin was the British naturalist who became famous for his theories of evolution and natural selection.

- This trip is a very important one in the history of science, for it led Darwin to write one of the worlds most famous books. The book is "The Origin of Species".

The voyage of the Beagle, 1831–1836

- The idea that all the plants and animals of today came from the simple plants and animals of long ago is called "The theory of evolution"