

Russian resort

Anapa

Anapa is the Black sea Russian resort, located in the south-western part of the Krasnodar territory, at the junction of the foothills of the Caucasus and the steppes of the Taman Peninsula .

Anapa

Anapa is one of the oldest cities in Russia. Its age is more than 2 500 years. In different periods, the cities Sindika and Gorgippia were located here. In 1846, Anapa received the status of a port city "for the settlement of residents of commercial and industrial class."

Anapa

From most of the seaside resorts of Anapa is distinguished by its unique natural resources. Anapa is the sunniest city in Russia, where the sun shines almost 300 days a year, and the swimming season lasts from may 15 to October 15.

The End