

Kids at work.

Aims: Students master to use the technology; improve the level of qualified tutoring, effectively brainstorm and solve problems

Maximum targets:

learn to rule effectively their own ideas

to overcome the confusion, spontaneous flow of thoughts;

in the right situations to be able to separate logic from emotion, from the actual desired, fantasy from fact

Type of lesson: Solving problem. Six thinking hats

Advantages:

6 different modes, a person may outline the process of thinking at any given moment, based on the circumstances, guide its development in a better way; a simple but effective method to become a better thinker clearly illustrates the importance to apply ideas different views and approaches do not collide but coexist.

What are the challenges?

face in dealing with any problem,
the problem situation

Emotions (often we tend to rely on intuition, emotions, prejudices

Helpless (I do not know what to do, where to start).

Confusion (we try to keep in mind all at once).

Features: group think:

- Why solve complex problems is often easier to implement individually and not as a team. What prevents the best use of the potential of all team members.

The principles of parallel thinking:

- How to improve communication in the team.

The concept of the Six Hats:

- different types of thinking. Why is it necessary to use all types. How to structure and organize the groupthink.

Using sequences of six hats:

- effective sequence types of thinking. How to use the tools of groupthink.
- How to quickly find an effective solution, look at the situation "from a different angle."

Systemic use of a hat:

- How to manage group thinking.
- Why six hats?
- Firstly: each hat has got its own individual colour, making it easy to identify other ones.
- So that, we change the hat, we "I will conduct the orchestra of his thoughts", attach them to the right direction
- Secondly: easy to put on then to take off. Therefore putting "brainstorming" hat is designed to help a person attain a calm state, to focus on specific mental operations;
- Third, the "thinking hats" provide a framework for the use of parallel thinking and avoiding disputes, time-consuming without any benefit, helping to negotiate with someone, come to an agreement

Importance:

- the method makes it possible to determine the rules of the game and learning the rules is one of the most promising forms of learning.
- is divided into six different modes, each of which is represented by the color of its hat.

Outcomes:

allows to develop the trainees':

- creative thinking
- critical thinking
- tolerance

Quick Letter. 3 min. 3-4 replies.

- A separate work
- I want to be a Why? Why not?
- My future job I choose. Why not?
- I will be a It is popular.

They think... . Which idea do you like? 1 point.

- Getting good pay is the most important thing for both Omar and Dmitry:
- /They are going to buy a
- They earn living.
- They want to help parents./
 - Having interesting work is the next important thing for Omar, but for Dmitry the next important thing is being hardworking:
- /It is the most important in work, a person should like his profession.
- I support the idea of hardworking, it brings practice and reputation.

- Having good health is important to Omar.
 - /He runs all day delivering newspapers, must run to school. He needs strong legs.
 - Omar is boring. He is not modern./
 - But for Dmitry, having interesting work is important.
 - /He does it for himself.
 - It is nothing if is not interesting.
 - A person can't do uninteresting job/

Omar-I'm a newspaper boy. I earn 2, 550 tenge a week.

It's a quarter of cost of living citizen of Kazakhstan's citizen.

I can buy 1kg sugar, 1kg apples, 1kg potatoes 2 bread a day.

I think, it's OK.

- Do you have to get up early?- Yes, have to.
- Do you have to think a lot? - Yes, have to.
- Do you have to get your hands dirty? - Yes, have to.
- Do you travel a lot? –Not, unfortunately.
- Do you have time to rest? - Not, unfortunately. Have to keep on duties.
- Do you have much responsibility? - Yes, have to.
- Do you have to be tired? - Yes, have to.

Yes, have to. 5 points

Not, unfortunately. 1 point.

What's that - $5 \times 5 = 25$; $1 \times 1 = 2$.

In the result: You are busy 25 times

And have no time to relax. 27 responses to 1 person is it not much?

That's wrong? Kids mustn't work! I protest. No, to kids work!

- Well. Don't worry. All is not bad.
- Lots of children all over the world have part time jobs, as well as you.
- No pains, no goals.
- £16 a night's job=4 pounds from your parents is full.
- 2,550 tenge for newspapers, not low paid.
- Your customers are friendly, they are thankful.
- The best is: You get used to win time and difficulties.
- And you say "No!" to smoking, to drugs, to alcohol. Actions say louder. Go on!

There will be many new professions in Tomorrow's world to keep people busy. Here are some new ideas for new professions.

Collectors: They can display them in the art museums and might become art workers. It can bring a lot benefit.

Painters: and will give chance to others to watch, to admire, brainstorm and can also show the way to choose a profession. It may be beneficiary, too.

Life advisers: I think, it is also suit teenagers, you can do this as a part-time job.

Holiday makers: Why not? You can do it during holidays as well as adults. It is a half work of a nurse in the hospital.

Consumers: You can do it on line. It won't take you much time.

▶ And it's not boring.
