Functions of Modal Verbs

The modal verbs are: can, could, must, will, would, shall, should, may, might, ought (to), etc. They have the same form in all persons. They come before the subject in questions and take not after them in negations. They take an infinitive without to after them except for ought which is followed by a to infinitive. Can she play tennis? No, she can't play tennis but she can play golf.

He ought to listen to you.

We express ability with:

can (ability in the present or future) Can you swim? No, I can't. I can run fast though.

could / was able to (ability in the past for repeated actions) She could / was able to dance for hours when she was young. (repeated action) was able to (= managed to) (ability in the past for repeated actions or a single action) He was able to win the race. (single action) (NOT He could win the race.)

BUT: I couldn't / wasn't able to find my keys. (single action) He couldn't / wasn't able to ski when he was young. (repeated action)

Can is the Present Simple form and could is the Past Simple. Can borrows the rest of its tenses from the verb phrase be able to. She hasn't been able to finish it yet.

We express possibility / probability with:

- could + present infinitive
- must + present infinitive
- can't + present infinitive

 may / might + present infinitive He may be back before noon. (It's possible.) There might be some cheese in the fridge. (It's possible.) He could still be at home. (It's possible.) They look alike. They must be twins. (I think they are twins.) You have been sleeping all day. You can't be tired.

(I don't think it's possible that you are tired.)

• Can ...? + present infinitive

Can he still be at work? (Is it possible?)

 could / might + perfect infinitive We could have had an accident. (It was possible but it didn't happen.)

Might is the past form of may. Might can also be used for present situations, too. There's a lot of traffic. I might be a little late for the meeting.

May I see Mr Parson?

I'm sorry, you can't see him. He is busy at the moment.

We express permission with:

(asking for permission)

can (informal) could (more polite) may (formal) might (more formal)

Can I borrow your pen? Could I borrow your car? May I use your phone? Might I see your driving licence, please?

(giving / refusing permission)

can (informal, giving permission) may (formal, giving permission) mustn't (refusing permission) can't (refusing permission)

You can have one more if you want. You may stay a little longer. You mustn't park here. You can't enter this room.

We make requests, offers or suggestions with:

can (request) could / would (polite request) could (suggestion) would you like (polite offer) Shall I / we (suggestion/offer)

will (offer/request) * for the other uses of 'will' (promises, threats, etc.) see p. 42

Can you help me tidy my room? Could / Would you help me with my homework? Could we go shopping today? Would you like some more lemonade? Shall I post this letter for you? (offer) Shall we buy him a present? (suggestion) I'll make you some coffee if you want. (friendly offer) Will you do me a favour? (friendly request)

We express advice with:

should / ought to
had betterYou should walk more. (general advice; I advise you.)had betterYou'd better see your dentist. (advice for a specific situation; it is a good idea.)

We express criticism with:

should / ought to + perfect infinitive = It would have been better if you had ... You ought to have been more polite to him. (It was the right thing to do but you didn't do it.)

We express obligation or necessity with:

must (strong obligation, duty or personal feelings of necessity)

have to (obligation or external necessity)

I've got to (informal; it's necessary)

You must stop when the traffic light is red. I must see a doctor soon. (I decide it's necessary.)

I have to do my homework every day. (the teachers decide it is necessary – not me) I've got to leave early today.

Must is the Present Simple form. It borrows the rest of its tenses from the verb have to. To form questions and negations of have to we use do/does (Present Simple) and did (Past Simple). He didn't have to do the shopping yesterday. You don't have to go to school today. Does he have to be at work on time?

We express absence of necessity or prohibition with:

mustn't (prohibition)

can't (prohibition)

needn't (it is not necessary) don't need to / don't have to (it is not necessary in the present / future) didn't need to / didn't have to (it was not necessary in the past)

You mustn't feed the animals in the zoo. (It's forbidden.) You can't enter the country club without a card. (You are not allowed.) You needn't take an umbrella. It isn't raining. You don't need to / don't have to do it now. You can do it later. (It isn't necessary.) He didn't need to / didn't have to go to work yesterday because it was Sunday. (It was not necessary.)
