Существует множество творческих изобретений, которые вряд ли найдут практическое применение в повседневной жизни. В Японии они называются "чиндогу" или "шинтоку" (chindogu — букв. "странное приспособление").
Представляем вам некоторые из них.

Baby Mops

★ Make your children work for their keep

After the birth of a child there's always the temptation to say "Yes, it's cute, but what can it do?" Until recently the answer was simply "lie there and cry", but now babies can be put on the payroll, so to speak, almost as soon as they're born.

Just dress your young one in Baby Mops and set him or her down on any hard wood or tile floor that needs cleaning. You may at first need to get things started by calling to the infant from across the room, but pretty soon they'll be doing it all by themselves.

There's no child exploitation involved. The kid is doing what he does best anyway: crawling. But with Baby Mops he's also learning responsibility and a healthy work ethic.

1. Rag rug for the baby, he crawls and simultaneously cleans the floor.

2. Grasping for making snowballs.

3. Umbrellas for shoes, in case of rain.

4. Slippers for cleaning floors.

5. Stand for the head of public transportation, you can sleep standing up and not be afraid that you'll fall.

6. Umbrella for the dog, it too can get wet!

7. Blushing veil for the dead fish - many people, preparing food, uncomfortable, staring into the eyes of fish from which they are going to cut off his head.

8. Butter in a tube for economical use.
