

Christmas in Great Britain

Bundiya Tanya

Preparing To Christmas

The British celebrate Christmas on December 25. They buy gifts for each other, decorate their houses with lights and choose Xmas trees.

Christmas Eve

Santa Claus climbs down the chimneys of the British houses and leaves presents under fur-trees on Christmas Eve, when people are sleeping.

Christmas Red Socks

A festive scene featuring two red Christmas stockings hanging from a wooden mantel against a brick fireplace wall. The stockings have white fuzzy cuffs. The left stocking is decorated with a small yellow teddy bear and a candy cane. The right stocking is decorated with a small black cat. The mantel is adorned with gold tinsel, red and white ornaments, and a pinecone. A wooden chair is visible in the bottom left corner.

Long ago, each child hung a stocking, or sock, over the fireplace. Santa entered down the chimney and left candy and presents inside the socks for the children. Today the tradition is carried on.

Christmas Morning

A nativity scene set within a rustic wooden stable. The scene is illuminated by warm, golden light, likely from small candles or lights. Mary is on the left, wearing a blue robe and a white veil, looking towards the center. Joseph is on the right, wearing a red robe and a brown tunic, looking towards the center. In the center, baby Jesus lies in a manger filled with straw. The stable's interior is made of dark wood, and the roof is covered with straw. The background is dark, with small white lights scattered throughout, suggesting a night scene.

In the morning, English people open their presents and then they attend religious ceremonies at churches.

Christmas Day

In the afternoon the British may watch the Queen on television as she delivers her traditional Christmas message to the United Kingdom or go to Trafalgar Square where a big Christmas tree stands.

The Happiest Holiday

In this wonderful day, English people visit their friends and relatives. Some groups of the British walk from house to house and sing Christmas carols. People give singers money or invite them for a warm drink.

enjoy the holidays

Merry Christmas!

