

Easter in Russia

In our country Easter- is one of the most popular holidays. It's a day of happiness, time for union of all faithful people in Russia.

Easter- is a very old holiday with old traditions. Usually orthodox people make Easter cakes, curd cakes that are called «Pasha» and colour eggs.

Easter cake

It's a round cake with raisins, nuts or candied fruits and usually with marzipan decorations. Nowadays we can buy it in a store.

Pasha

This dish is made of curd in a form of pyramid. Orthodox people can cook pasha only once a year.

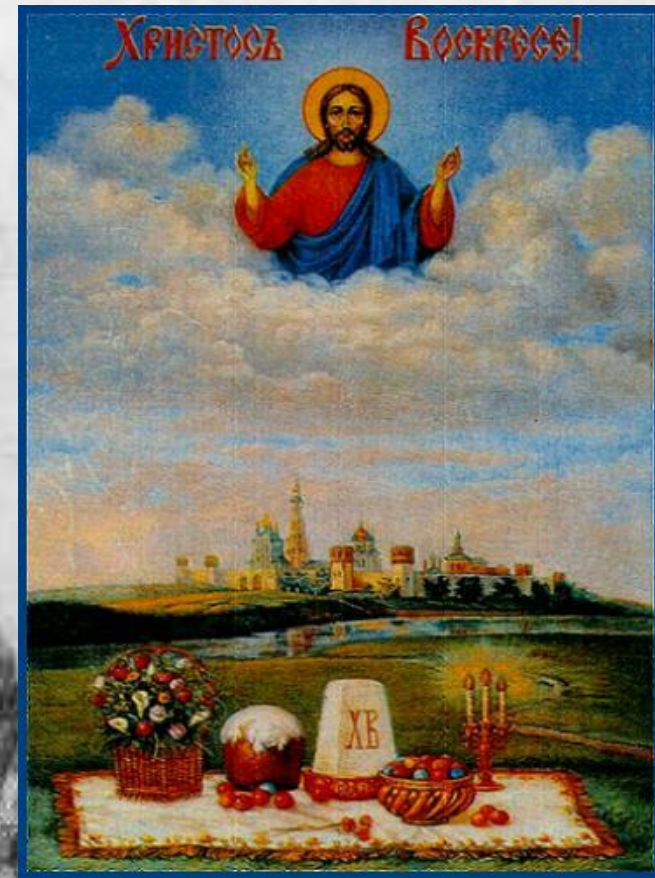

Eggs

You can paint eggs in red colour with onion peels or paint them in different colours. After that you can decorate eggs with labels, paints or something else- you should make it with love only!

You can give an egg to somebody as a gift and say: «Christ is risen!», and answer will be: «Truly. He has risen!». It's also an old tradition.

Before the October revolution people in Russia sent Easter postcards to each other. They were really kind and nice!
