

An Ideal State

Created: Prusakov Denis

The political system

I have chose the following political system a presidential republic. I think it is more democratic than constitutional monarch. At the head of system there is a president.

The head of the state

I think, in the head of the state there should be a person serious, self-assured, that who counts all beforehand, and does all for country development. That who correctly estimates a situation, and makes correct decisions.

The present and former president of Russia

The present president – Dmitry Medvedev

The former president – Vladimir Putin

Power institutes

- Legislative institute – The Federal Assembly.
- Executive power institute – The Federal Government.
- Judicial branches institute – The Supreme Court.

Responsibilities of each branch

- I think it is necessary to make so, the legislative forms laws, gives them on consideration to the president, the president considers the law if the law is accepted it give to executive power, and watch for law execution if the law is not accepted that is given back, on completion, to legislature. Judicial branches submits to nobody!
