We think bigger than an agency and more creatively than a consultancy with the power to integrate the whole system. We are a next generation services company dedicated to creating transformative ideas that get our clients to the future first.

We are looking for an Art Director to join our digital agency IBM Interactive Experience (IX).

Responsibilities:

- Implement and leverage common design processes and tools across IX Digital Experience service line and design team members
- Support in hiring process for designers within Digital Experience service line
- Mentor UX designers and share knowledge on UX methods, tools and trends with the rest of your colleagues
- Support Digital Experience service line development in terms of services, approaches, reusable assets and standards
- Translate business needs, market research and user insights into innovative concepts and ideas
- Work with clients and colleagues to create a vision of the future customer and employee experience illustrating the "art of the possible" using the latest technology
- Scope, plan, and lead UX activities from initial requirements to concepts, prototypes, interaction design and development within several projects. Support pre-sales activities (planning and scope definition) within design services project opportunities
- Lead user research activities in terms of requirements for UX/UI improvement and development

Skills and experience:

- Minimum 5 years' experience in working as a senior UX Designer and proven track record in working with leading national or international brands
- Trustworthy and comfortable presenting and working with client top management
- Expertise in all key UX disciplines from user research, facilitating user groups and transforming business requirements into exciting user experiences documented in prototypes, wireframes and interaction design
- Expert skills in tools required to create superior employee and customer experiences like Axure, Adobe Illustrator, Adobe Photoshop, Sketch, HTML prototypes, Proto.io, other design tools as well as pen and paper
- Experience and comfortable in creating quick and dirty information architecture, prototypes of web and mobile app interactions and experiences
- Desire to work in an international environment and working with IBM IX colleagues in other countries
- Team player and also able to lead from the front
- Enjoys a high paced environment with ability to manage many tasks at the same time
- Focused on delivering high quality work and motivated by developing new innovative solutions for clients
- English (advanced level), Russian (fluent)
- Experience in developing clickable prototypes, HTML, CSS and modern front-end technologies is a plus
- Design Thinking experience is a plus
