A long-exposure photograph of Tower Bridge in London at night. The bridge's stone structure is illuminated with a green light, and its two towers are lit with a warm yellow light. The suspension cables are visible on both sides. The road below the bridge is filled with light trails from cars, with red trails on the left and white/yellow trails on the right. The sky is a deep purple. The text "The end" is written in a yellow, cursive font across the center of the bridge's arch.
