

MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Christmas is the time when Christians around the world celebrate the birth of Jesus.

Every year in December we celebrate the Birthday of Jesus Christ. That is why we call this time of year “Christmas” – we celebrate the “Mass”, or church service, for Christ.

The word Christmas (or Christ's Mass) comes from the Old English name "Cristes Maesse" – Christ's Mass – and is the celebration of the birth of Jesus. The first recorded observance occurred in Rome in AD360, but it wasn't until AD440 that the Christian Church fixed a celebration date of 25 December.

Christmas is a truly magical season, bringing families and friends together to share the much loved customs and traditions which have been around for centuries. Most people are on holiday in the UK and stay at home with their family on Christmas day, the main day for Christmas celebrations in Britain. Christmas is celebrated on the 25th December, with a Christmas dinner at midday for the whole family.

During the weeks before Christmas day, we send cards, watch nativity plays and go to carol services. We put up Christmas decorations in our homes and churches.

Many of our Christmas customs began long before Jesus was born. They came from earlier festivals which had nothing to do with the Christian church. Long time ago people had mid-winter festivals when the days were shortest and the sunlight weakest. They believed that their ceremonies would give the sun back it's power. The Romans, for example, held the festival of Saturnalia around 25 December. They decorated their homes with evergreens to remind them of Saturn, their harvest god, to return the following spring.

© Copyright Mandy Barrow

Some of these customs and traditions were adopted by early Christians as part of their celebrations of Jesus' birthday.

In Victorian times some new ideas such as Father Christmas, Christmas cards and crackers were added to the celebrations.

In past centuries, the English Father Christmas was also known as Old Father Christmas, Sir Christmas, and Lord Christmas. Father Christmas is said to wear (these days) a bright red suit, but in Victorian and Tudor times he wore a bright green suit.

A detailed painting of Santa Claus in his traditional red suit with white trim and a white beard. He is standing in a cozy living room, holding a green book and waving with his left hand. To his right is a white fireplace mantel decorated with a green garland and red stockings. A white note is pinned to the mantel, reading "DEAR SANTA PLEASE FIND ME HERE Jimmy". A dark glass bottle, likely Coca-Cola, sits on the mantel. The fireplace opening shows a brick interior with a fire burning. In the background, a Christmas tree is partially visible on the left, and a child is peeking from behind it. The floor is made of wooden planks, and a green rug is in the foreground.

Father Christmas delivers them during the night before Christmas. The Children leave an empty stocking or pillowcase hanging at the end of the bed. In the morning they hope it will be full of presents.