

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

I haven't got _____ much money
at the moment.

How to use these words?

much, many, a lot of

We use « much » for uncountable nouns in negative and interrogative sentences.

She hasn't got much money.
Is there much work to be done?

We use « many » for countable nouns in negative and interrogative sentences.

We haven't got many chairs.
Are there many people coming tomorrow?

We can use « a lot of » in all forms:

We haven't got a lot of friends.
Is there a lot of wine in the fridge?
There's a lot of beer on the table.
There are a lot of cars in the car park.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

How many chairs do we need for the party?

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

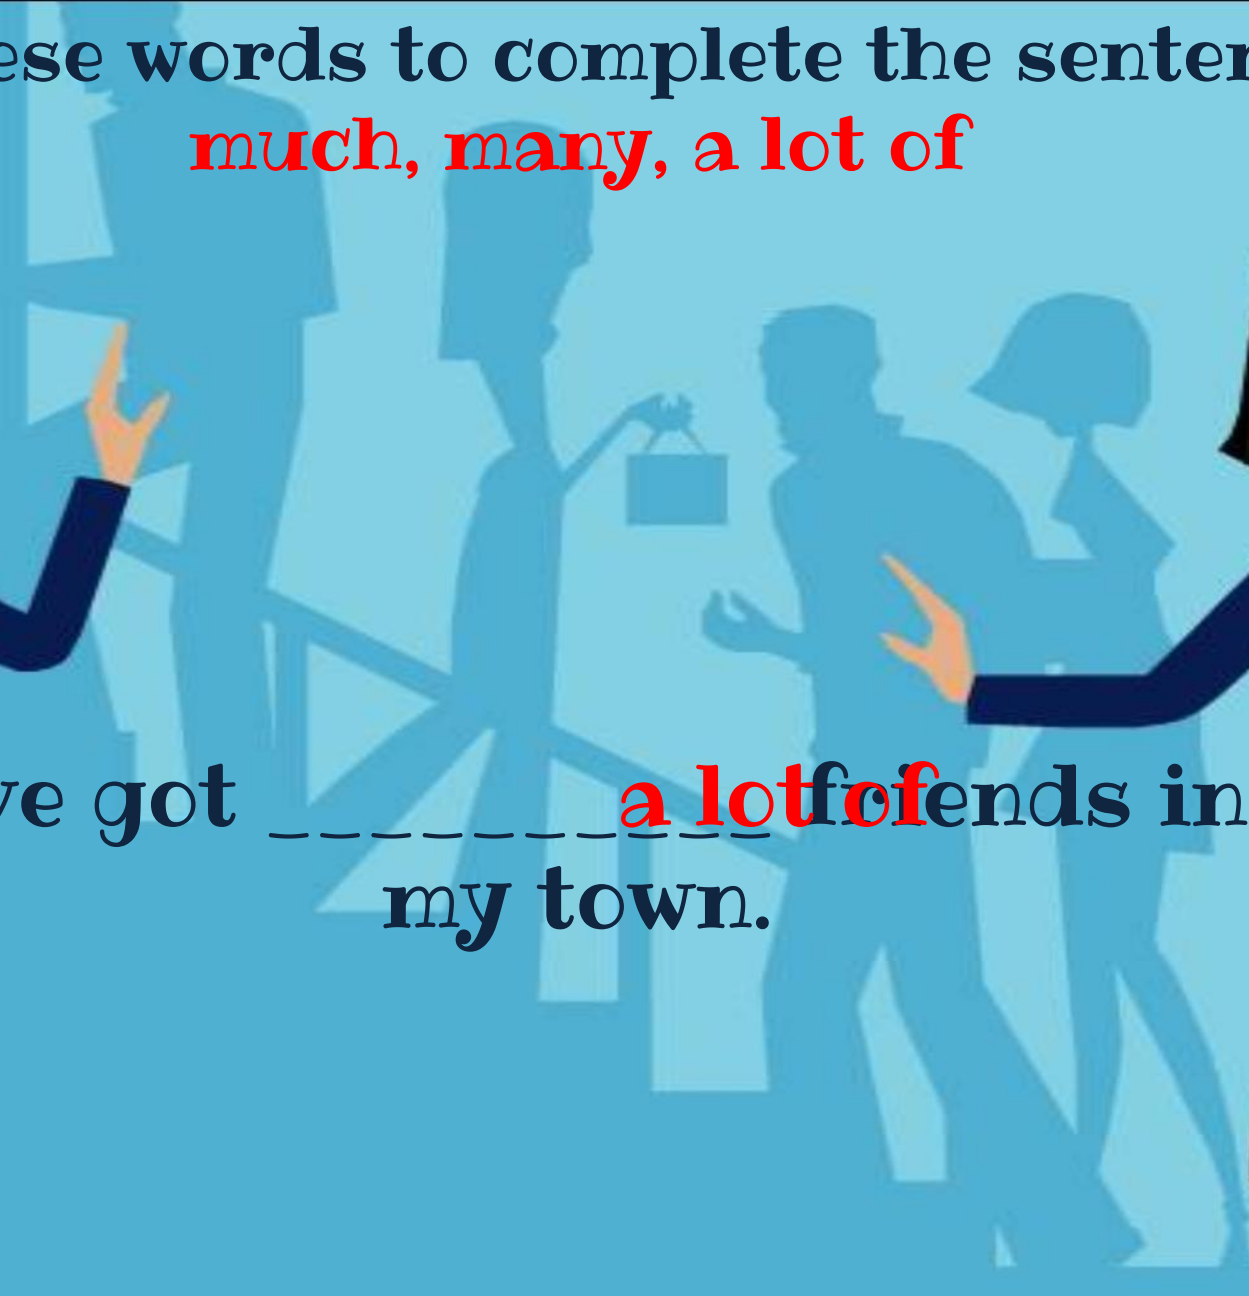

Our teacher always gives us
too _____ homework.

much

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

I've got _____ a lot of friends in my town.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

My parents gave me

a lot of good advice when

I was young.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

How _____ much did you pay for
that computer?

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

They haven't got _____ much furniture yet.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

My husband's got _____
work to do this weekend.

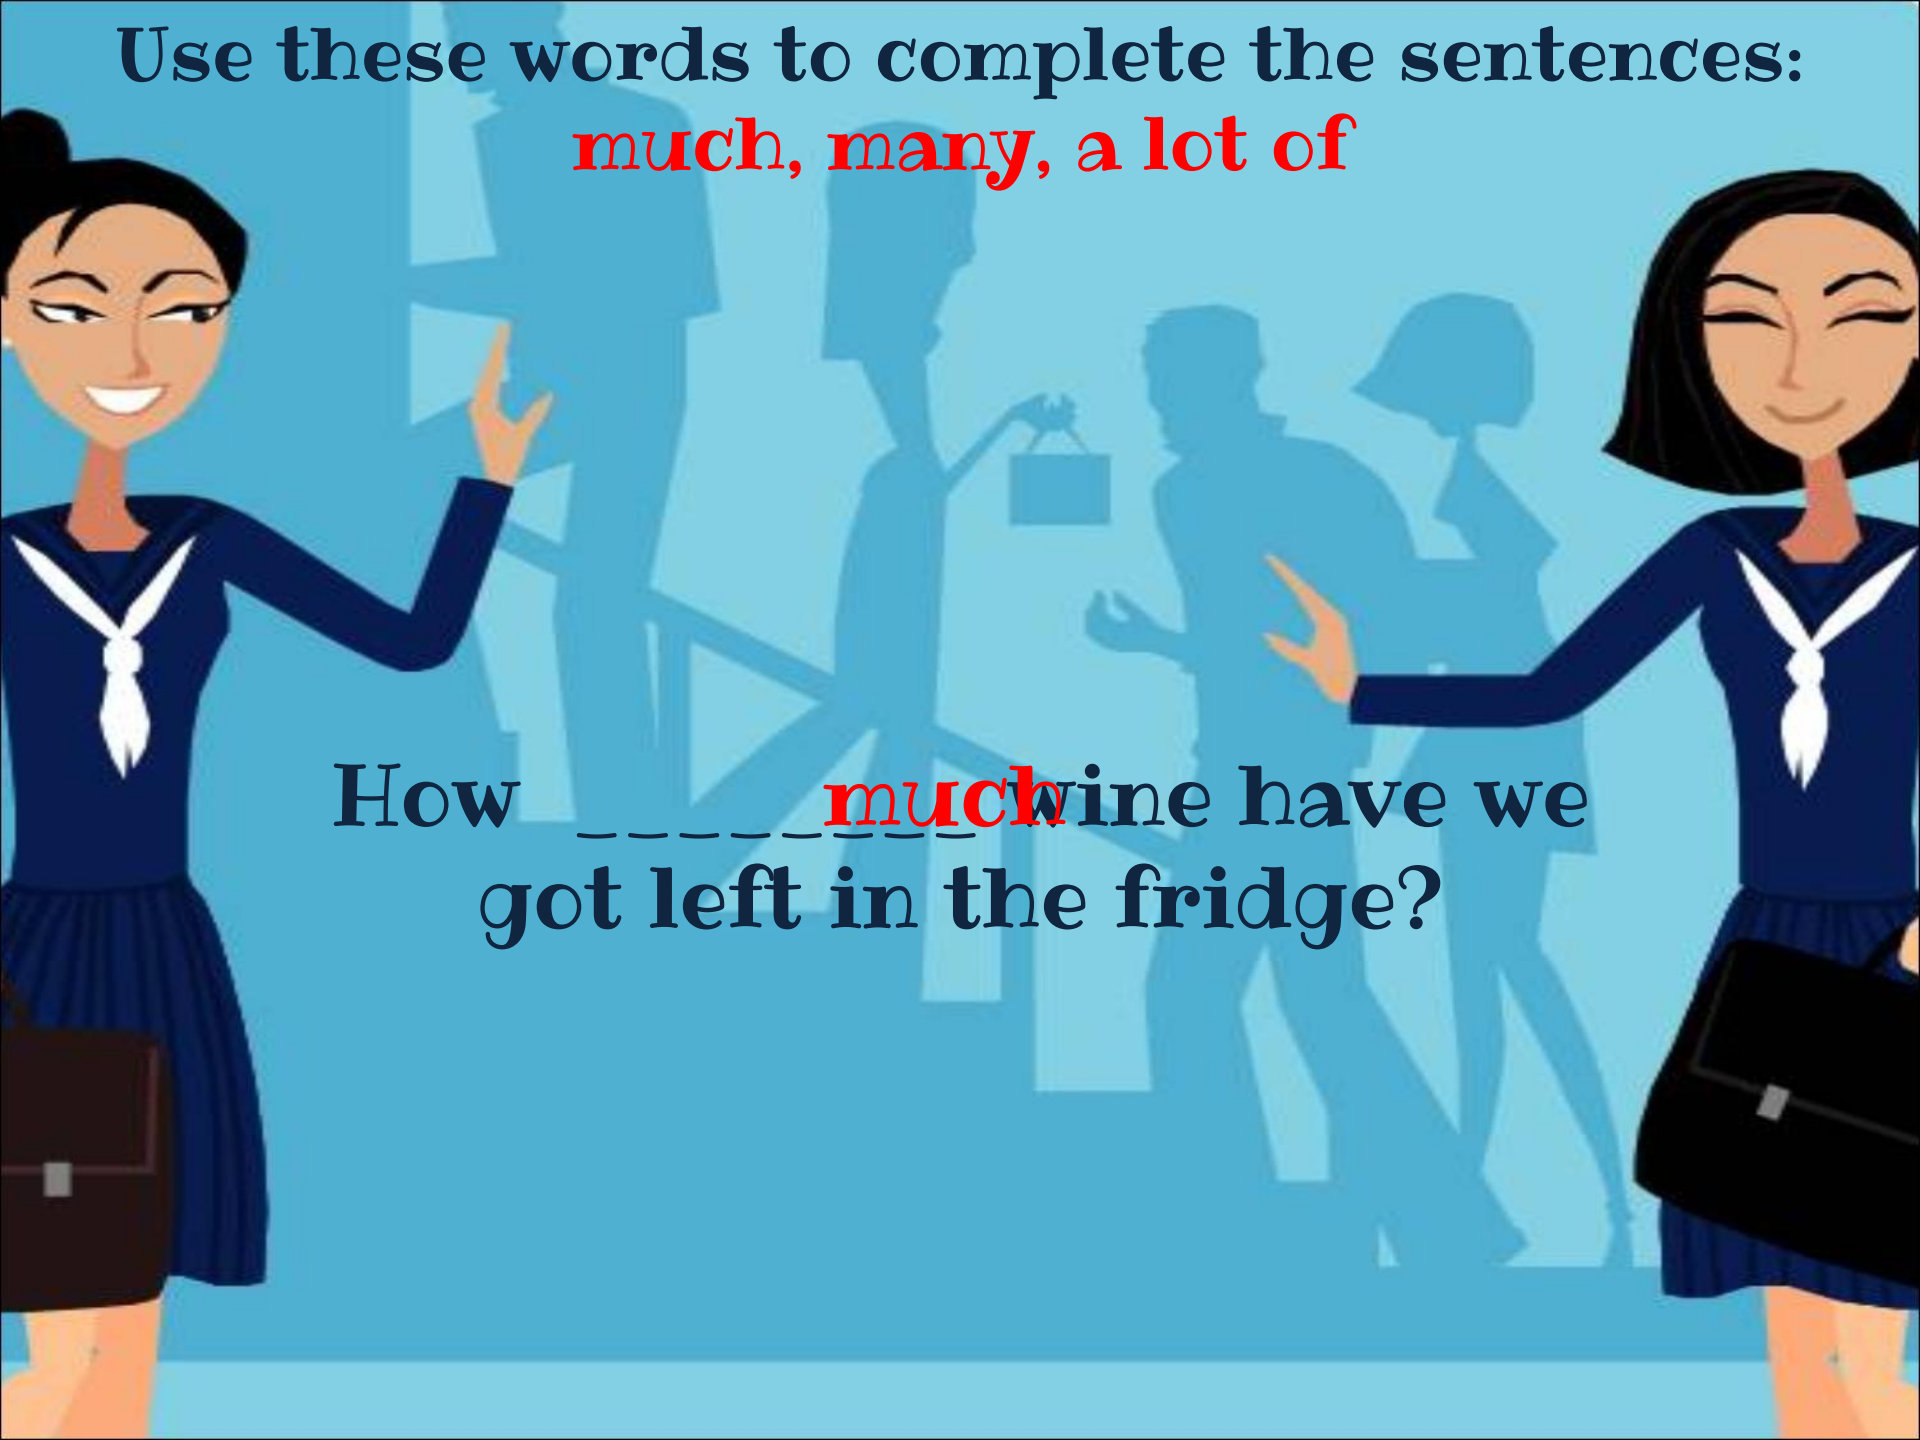

Use these words to complete the sentences:
much, many, a lot of

How _____ many stars are there on the American flag?

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

How _____ much wine have we got left in the fridge?

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

How _____ many eggs are there?

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

You need _____ a lot of eggs to make a good omelette.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

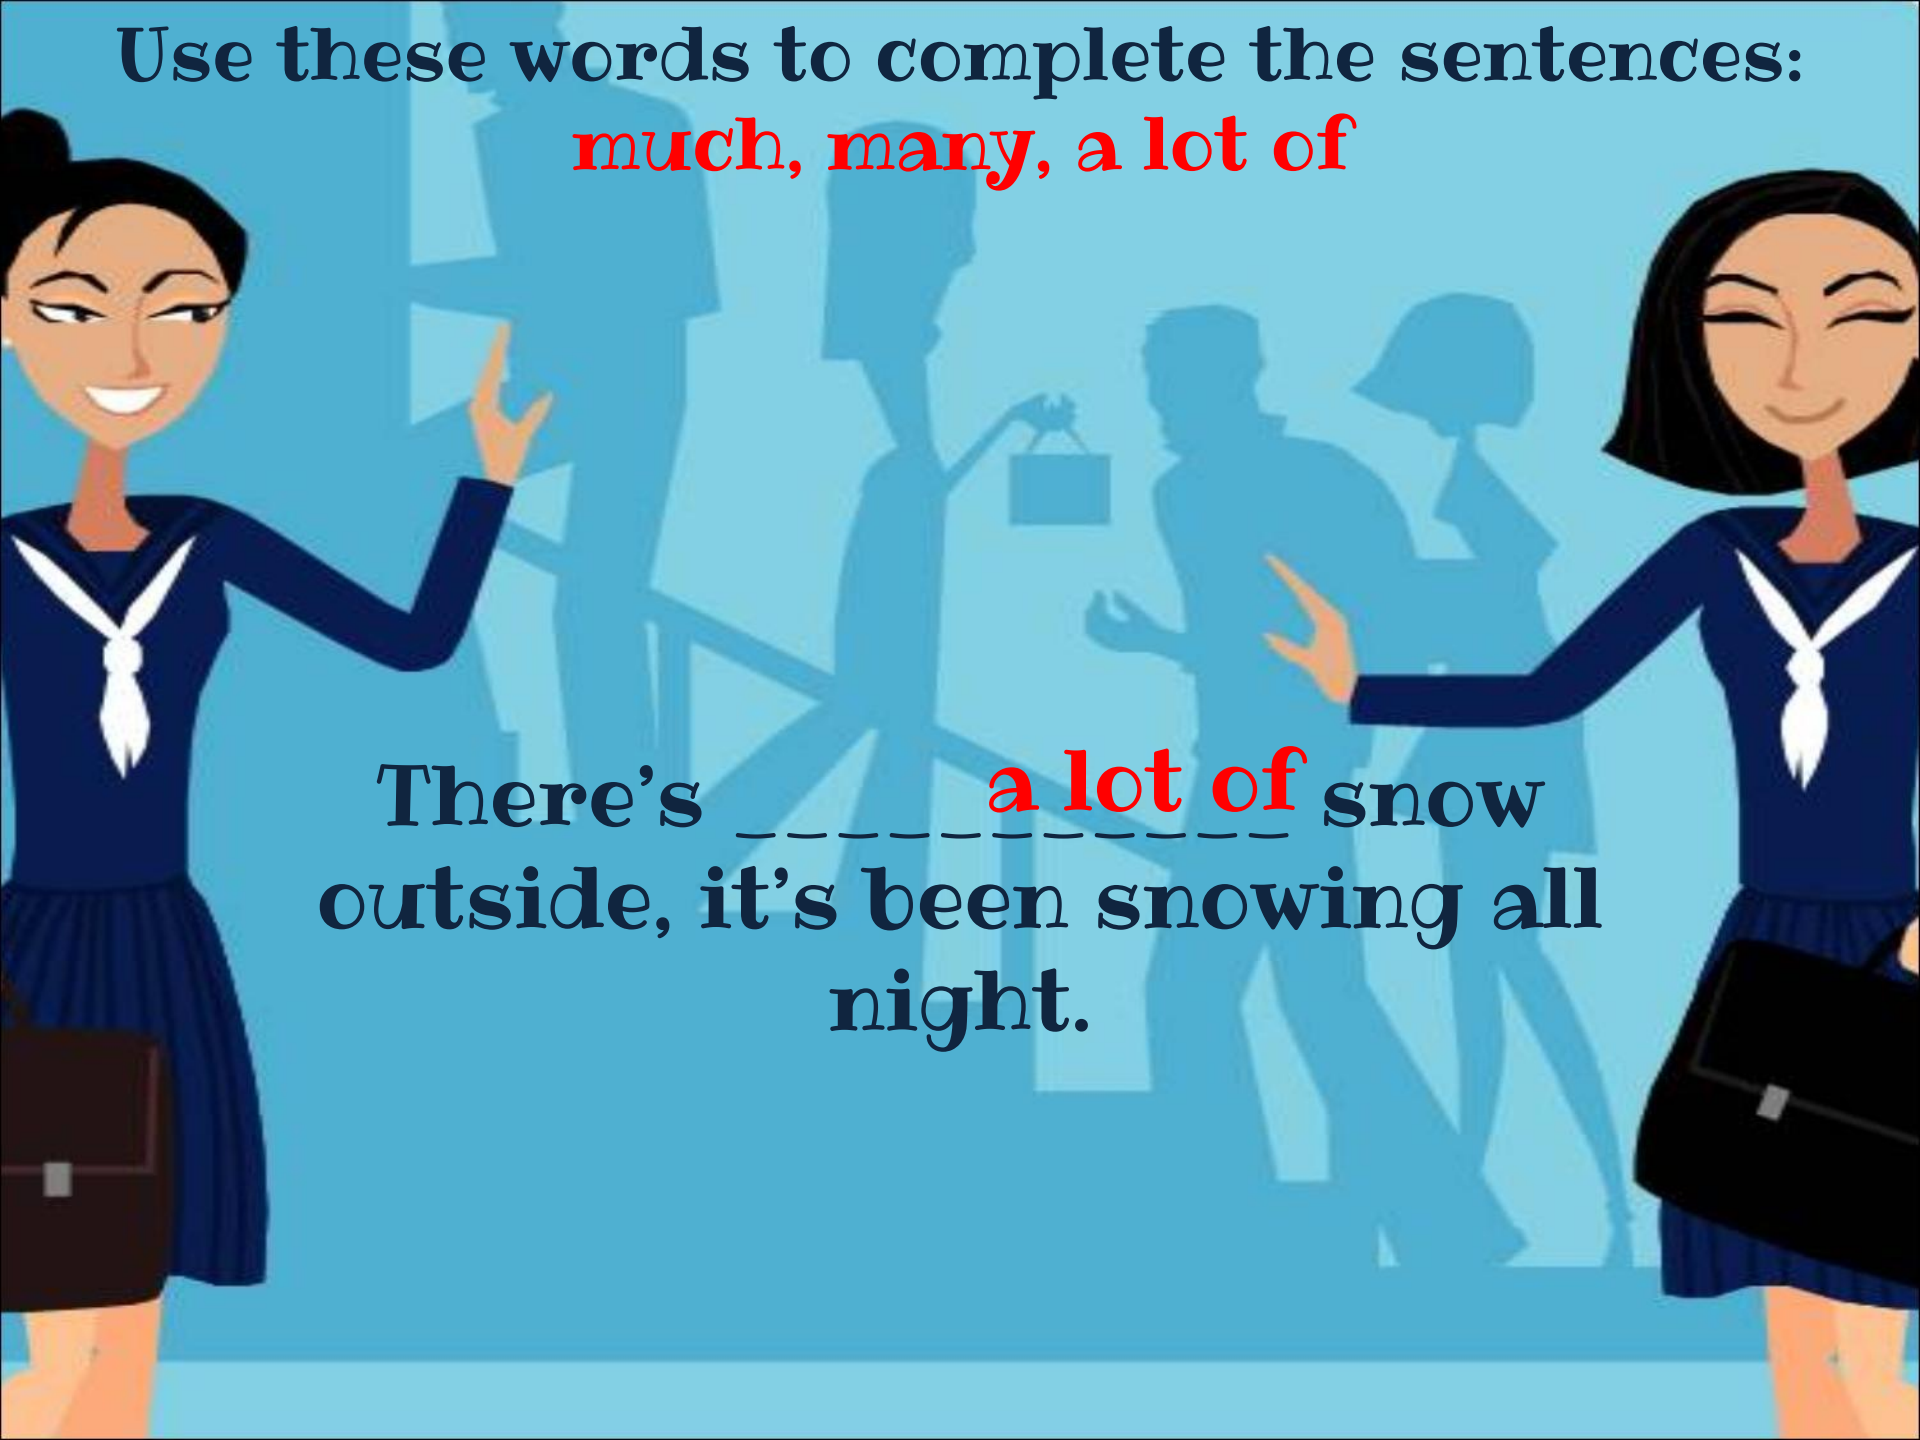

much, many, a lot of

Mary feels sick. She's eaten too ----- many chocolates.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

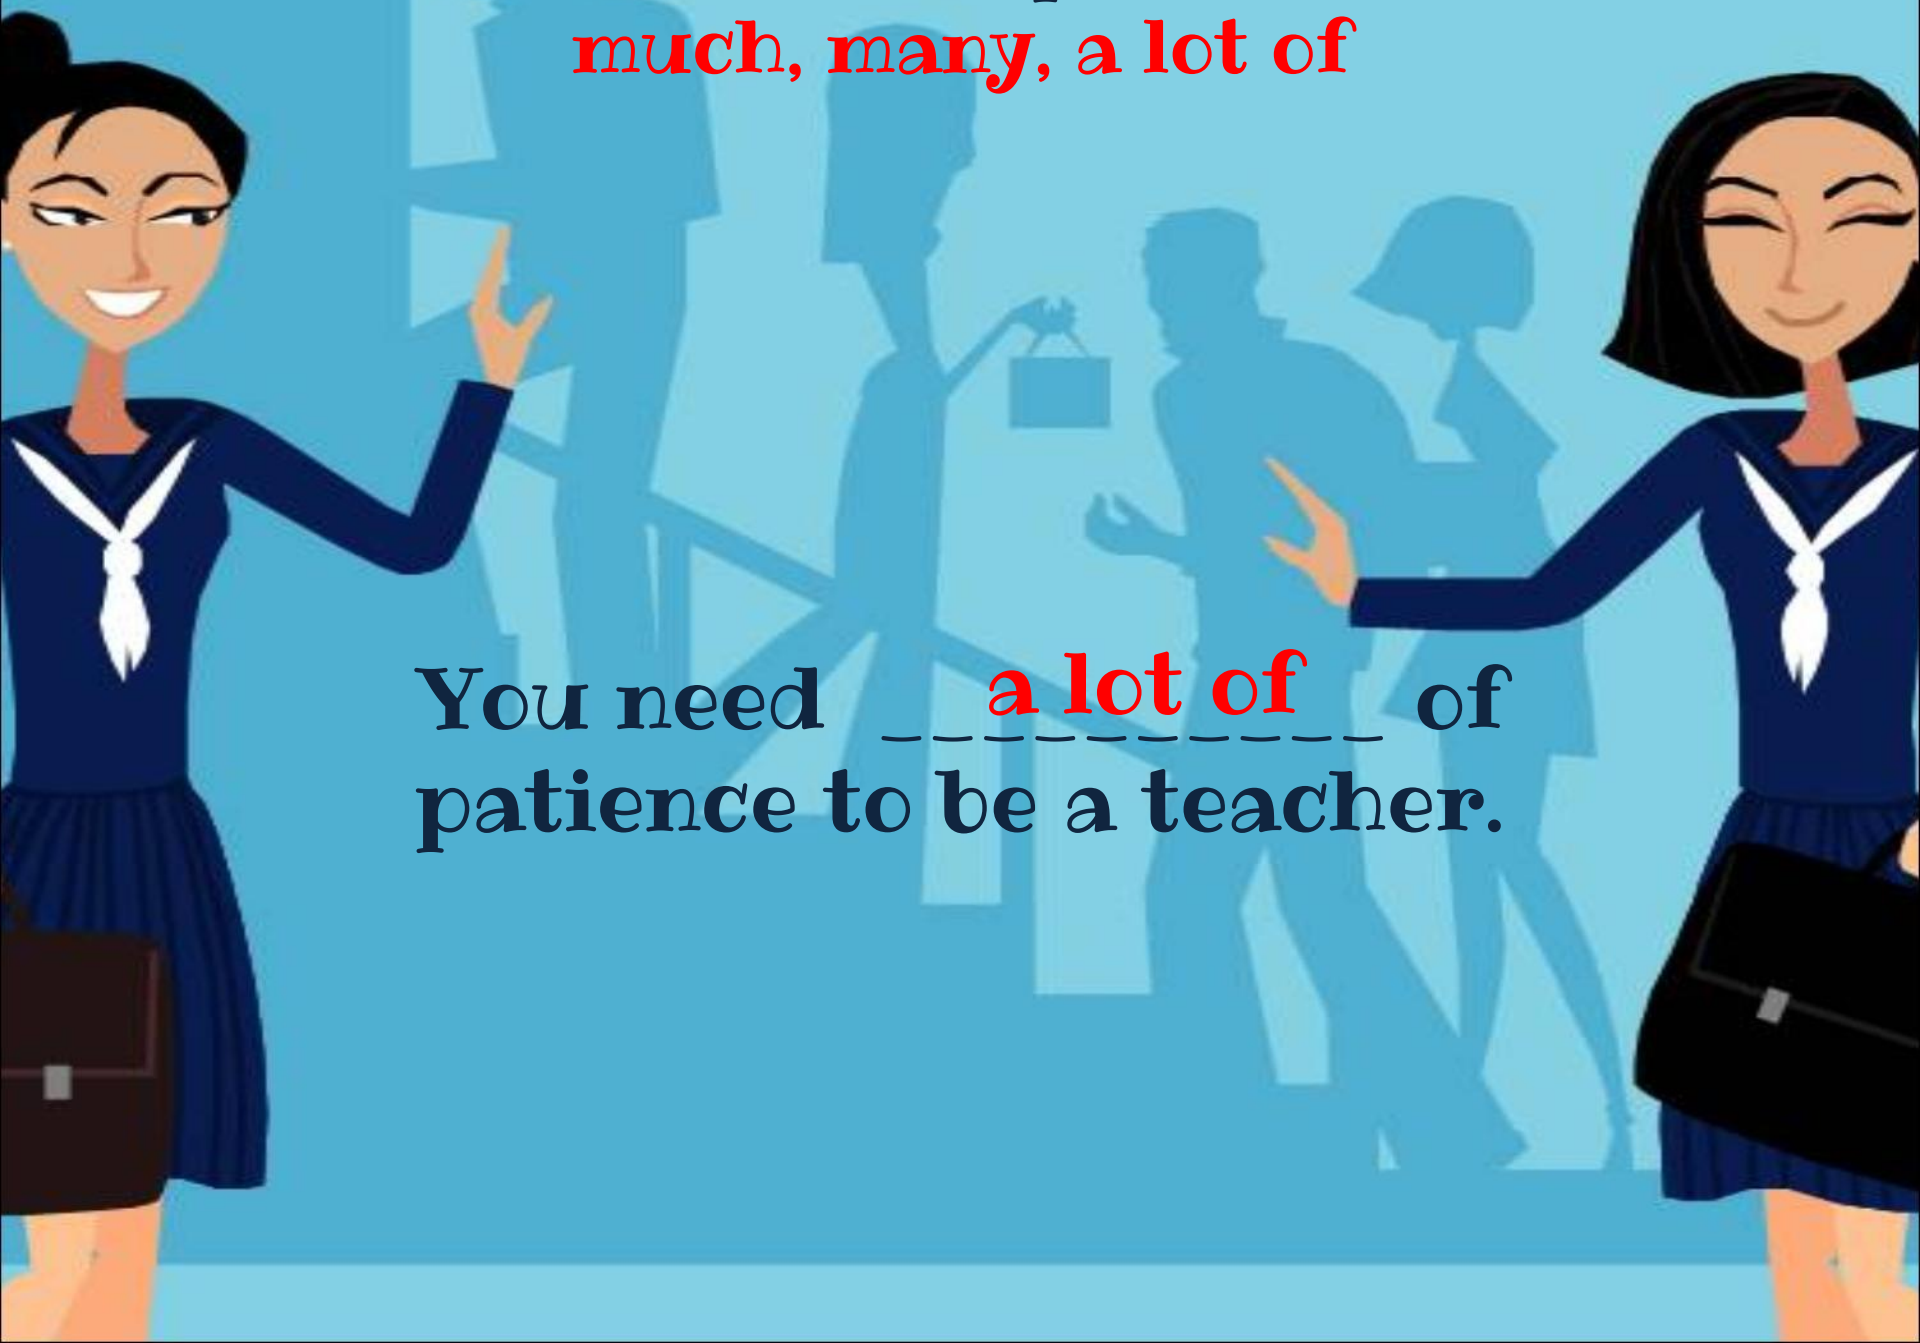

much, many, a lot of

There's _____ a lot of snow
outside, it's been snowing all night.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

You need a lot of of patience to be a teacher.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

David eats _____ rice,
a lot of he loves it.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

I can't make a cake I haven't got ----- much flour.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

Italian people eat _____
a lot of pasta.

Use these words to complete the sentences:
much, many, a lot of

How _____ many people are coming to the party?

Use these words to complete the sentences:

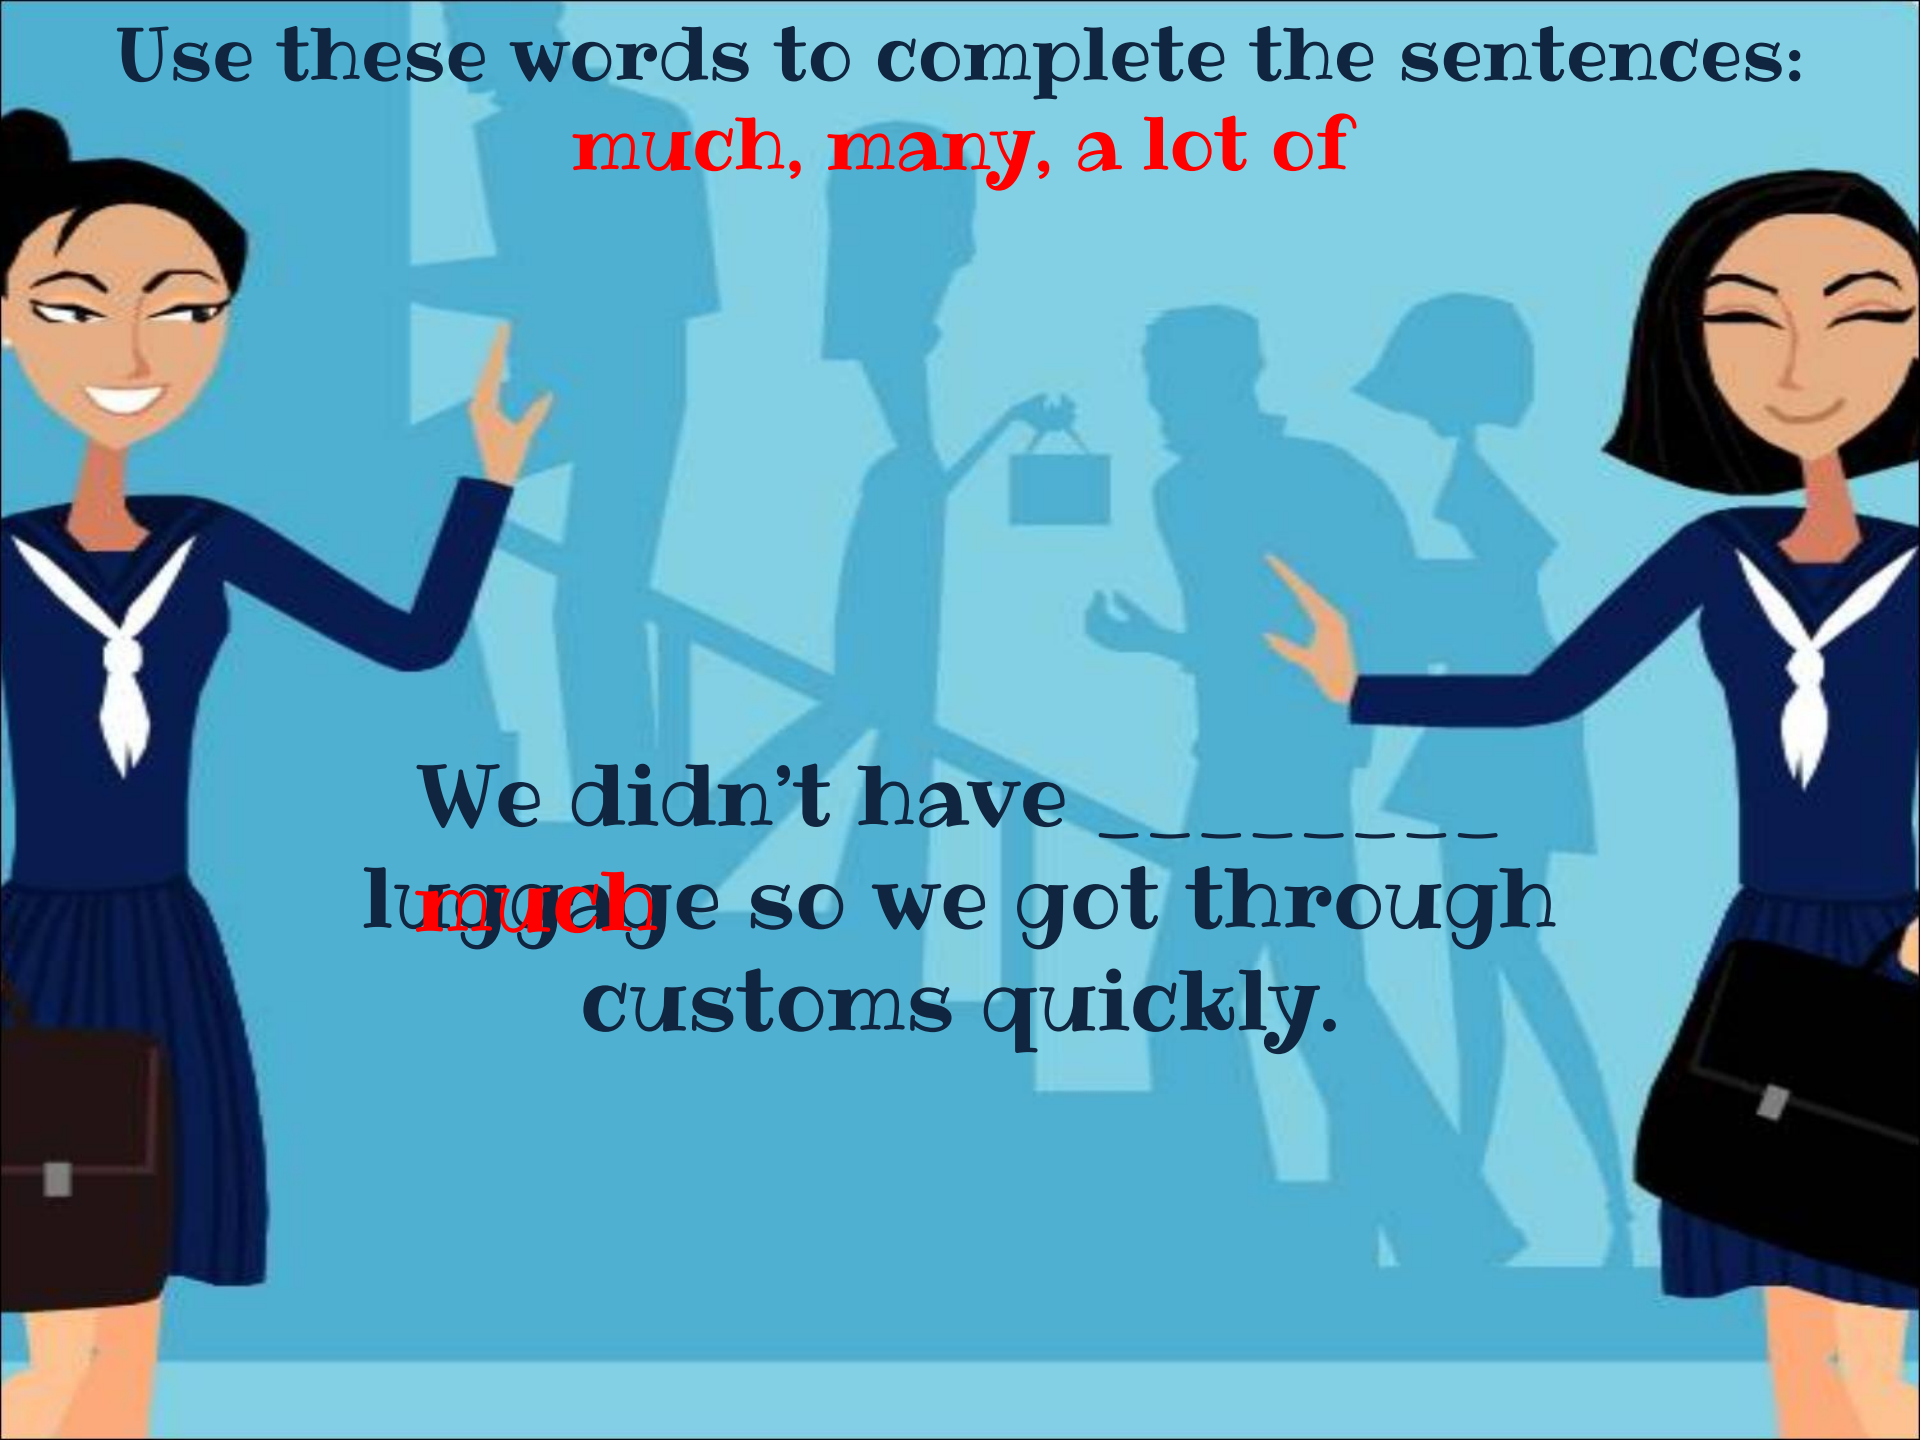

much, many, a lot of

How _____ much food will we need?

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

We didn't have _____ luggage so we got through customs quickly.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

We didn't take _____ photos
either many because we'd been there before.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

Do you drink _____ much coffee?

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

I had to buy _____ a lot of food
yesterday because my parents are coming to stay.

Use these words to complete the sentences:

much, many, a lot of

How many players are there
in a football team?