“Great Britain. Political system”

The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland is a parliamentary democracy with a constitutional monarchy.

This means that Great Britain is governed by the Parliament and the Queen is the Head of State. She has mostly representative functions.

There are three branches of power in Great Britain:

- Legislative
- Executive
- Judicial

The legislative branch of power is exercised by the Houses of Parliament which consists of two chambers:

the House of Lords

the House of Commons

The executive power is exercised by Prime Minister and his Cabinet.

The Government is usually formed by the political party which is supported by the majority in the House of Commons.

The Prime Minister chooses ministers and forms Cabinet.

There are two political parties in Great Britain: the Conservative and the Labor Party.

David Cameron

The judicial branch of power determines common law and is independent of both the legislative and the executive branches.

There is no written Constitution in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

The Political system
of the USA

The United States of America is a presidential Republic.

The head of the state is the President who is elected by the people.

The President must be at least 35 years old and must have lived in the USA for at least 14 years.

B. Obama
a real president since January 2009.

In the USA two main political parties fight for the power: the Democratic Party and Republican Party.

The legislative branch.

The legislative branch of power -
the Congress
is made up of two parts:

the House of Representatives (435 members),
and Senate (100 members-two from each state).

The job of the Congress is to make laws.

It can also impeach the President.

The executive branch.

The president and his Administration represent the executive branch of the federal government. The executive branch puts the country's laws into effect.

The president can veto a bill, can ask the Congress to declare war, he also appoints the justices to the Supreme Court and do his job according to the Constitution.

The judicial branch.

The judicial branch of government is the system of courts. The Supreme Court is the highest court in the country.
