

The weather is usually fine. It's warm. The sky is often blue and the sun is bright. Little children go to school with their parents on their first school day. They don't have any bags or books with them, as there is no need for these things on their first day at school. Pupils will get them later. They will get exercise books, pencils, pens, rulers and rubbers too.

English children have classes five days a week, as well as children in Russia. They have classes on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Classes are usually over at about three o'clock and the pupils go home. They rarely have classes on Saturday and on Sunday. Saturdays and Sundays are their days off.

In both countries (in England and in Russia) classes usually begin at nine. Pupils have a break at 10.30 and may have a drink of milk or orange juice. At half past twelve or at one o'clock they usually have lunch – meat, pudding, juice, an apple or a cake.

After lessons teachers usually read fairy tales and stories to them or sometimes they tell them something interesting.

English and Russian pupils often play outdoors.

Children in Russia spend 4 years in primary school. Most schools in Russia have numbers, not names, and in some schools students wear uniforms.

During the breaks the children play games and relax. After the lessons some students stay at school and do homework with their teachers because their parents are at work.

- Every school has got classrooms, a gym, a computer room, a library and a canteen.
- Students have 4-5 lessons a day and the subjects they have are: Russian, Maths, English, Geography, History, Computer Study, Art, Literature, Handicraft and PE.
