

Rights for

CHILDREN

I consider that each child must have his own personal rights. Due to it, we can have a possibility in the private life. Some of them are presented in my work.

Children have the right to information.

Rights for Children

Written by Jane Scoggins Bauld
Illustrated by Laura Telford

What rights are broken most of all?

- All children have the right to non-discrimination.
- Children have the right to life.
- All children have the right to name and nationality at birth.
- Children have the right to information.
- Children have the right to education and development
- Children have the right to meet other people.

- The major goal of the Rights for Children is to bring heightened awareness not in word only, but in attitude and action.

- When a child's rights are fulfilled there is no need to rebel. When human rights are not violated, there is peace.

- I think, children are the most vulnerable part of our society. They cannot define their own rights or uphold them, but are dependent on others to do this for them.
