What is a uniform?

According to Longman dictionary, a uniform is a type of clothing worn by all the members of an organization, or all the children at a school. It's a dress of the same style, materials and color worn by a group.

The idea of school uniforms is actual nowadays.

- In the village of Kara-Tube, the Stavropol region of Russia, a scandal erupted after the local school administration banned wearing hijabs, or headscarves, for students. On average, 77 percent of Russians supported the idea of a school uniform previously voiced by President Vladimir Putin shortly after the scandal.

Introduction

- In this work I'm going to study the history of wearing school uniforms in England and in Russia and to compare them, to analyze pros and cons of the uniform, to ask different people if we need a school uniform

The aim of my work is:

- studying the problem of wearing school uniform in England and in Russia.

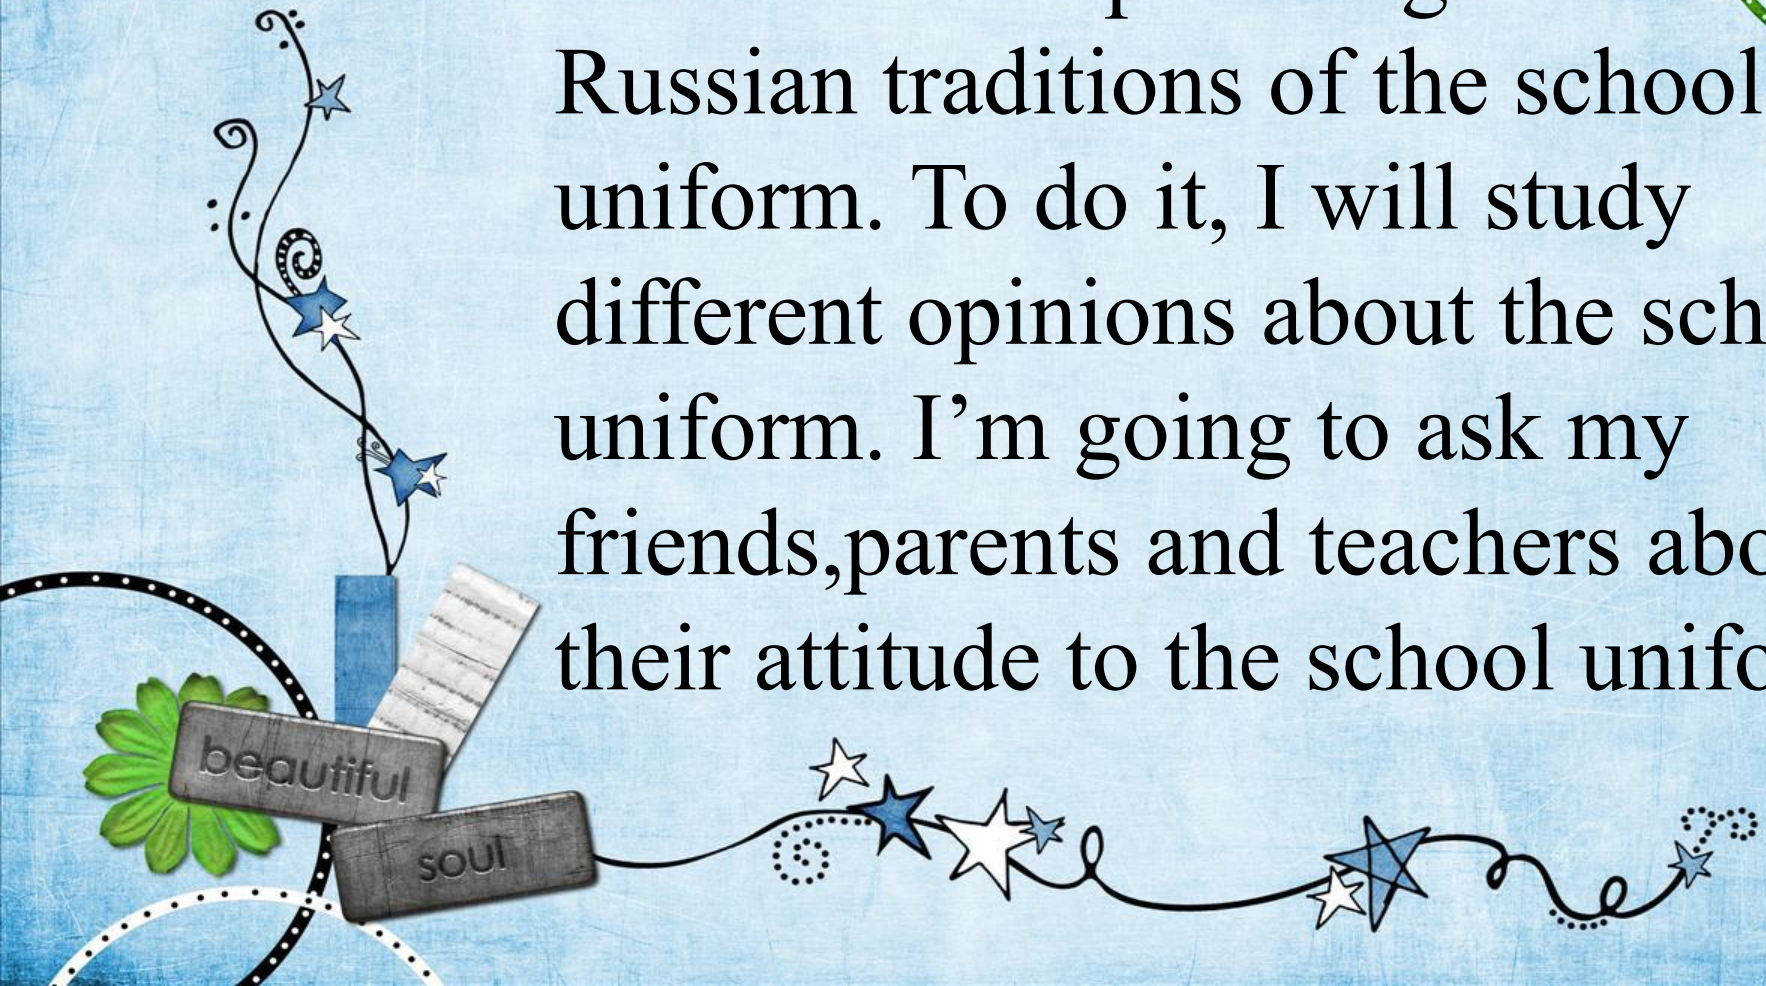

Essential Question

- Do we need a school uniform?

Method

- I want to compare English and Russian traditions of the school uniform. To do it, I will study different opinions about the school uniform. I'm going to ask my friends, parents and teachers about their attitude to the school uniform.

School uniform in Great Britain

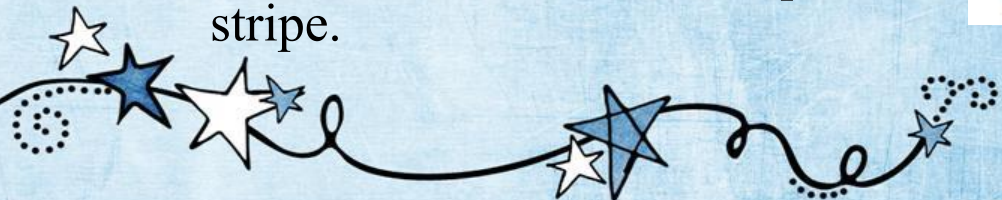

- Eton College
The boys still wear a formal school uniform: a black tailcoat and waistcoat and pin-striped trousers .
- Famous "Old Etonians" (people educated at Eton) include the Duke of Wellington, writers such as Shelley and George Orwell, and many British Prime Ministers. Both of Prince Charles' sons (William and Harry) studied at Eton (Harry left in June 2003).
- They are proud of their Old Etonian tie: black with turquoise stripe.

School uniform in Russia

- This is my mother. When she was a student, she wore a school uniform too. She was a pioneer and wore a red necktie and a badge.
- I am very proud of my mum. She was an excellent student.

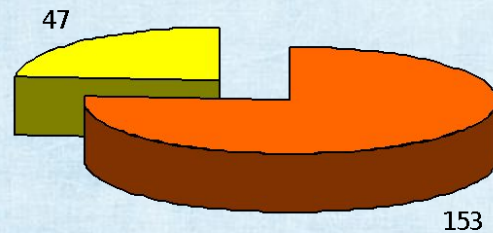

School uniform in Russia

- Today, there is no unified standard uniform in Russia, however, many gymnasiums and lyceums, may have their own uniform that students are required to wear. Educational institutions without a uniform may also have a certain dress-code.

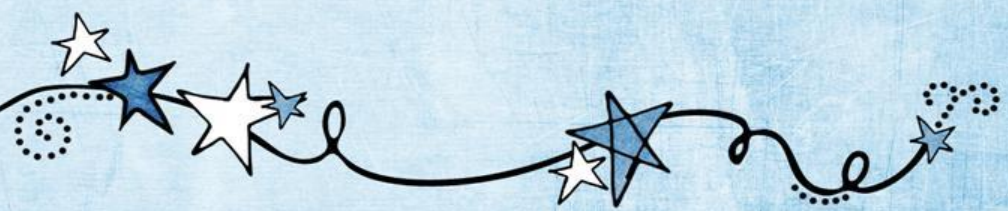

survey

- We asked 200 teenagers if they want a uniform

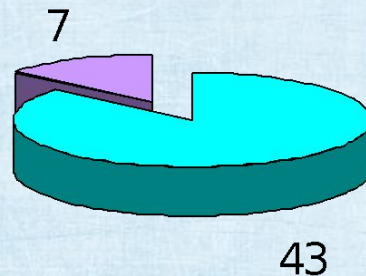

■ these students think that we need a uniform

■ these students think that we do not need a uniform

survey

- We asked 50 kids about a school uniform

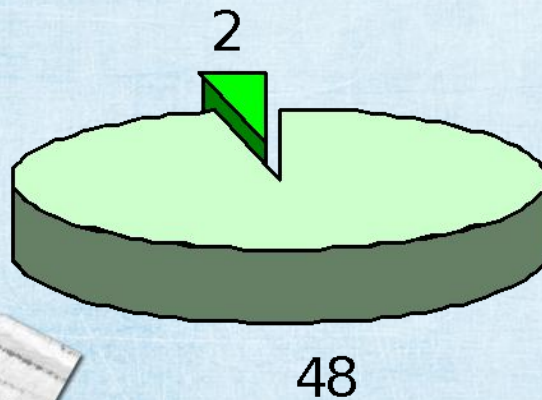

■ these little kids think that we need a uniform

■ this little kids think that we do not need a uniform

survey

- We asked 50 teachers about a school uniform

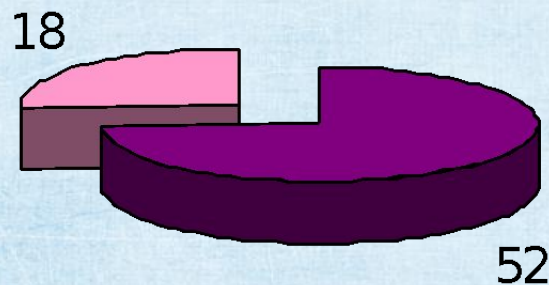

- these teachers think that we need a school uniform
- these teachers think that we do not need a school uniform

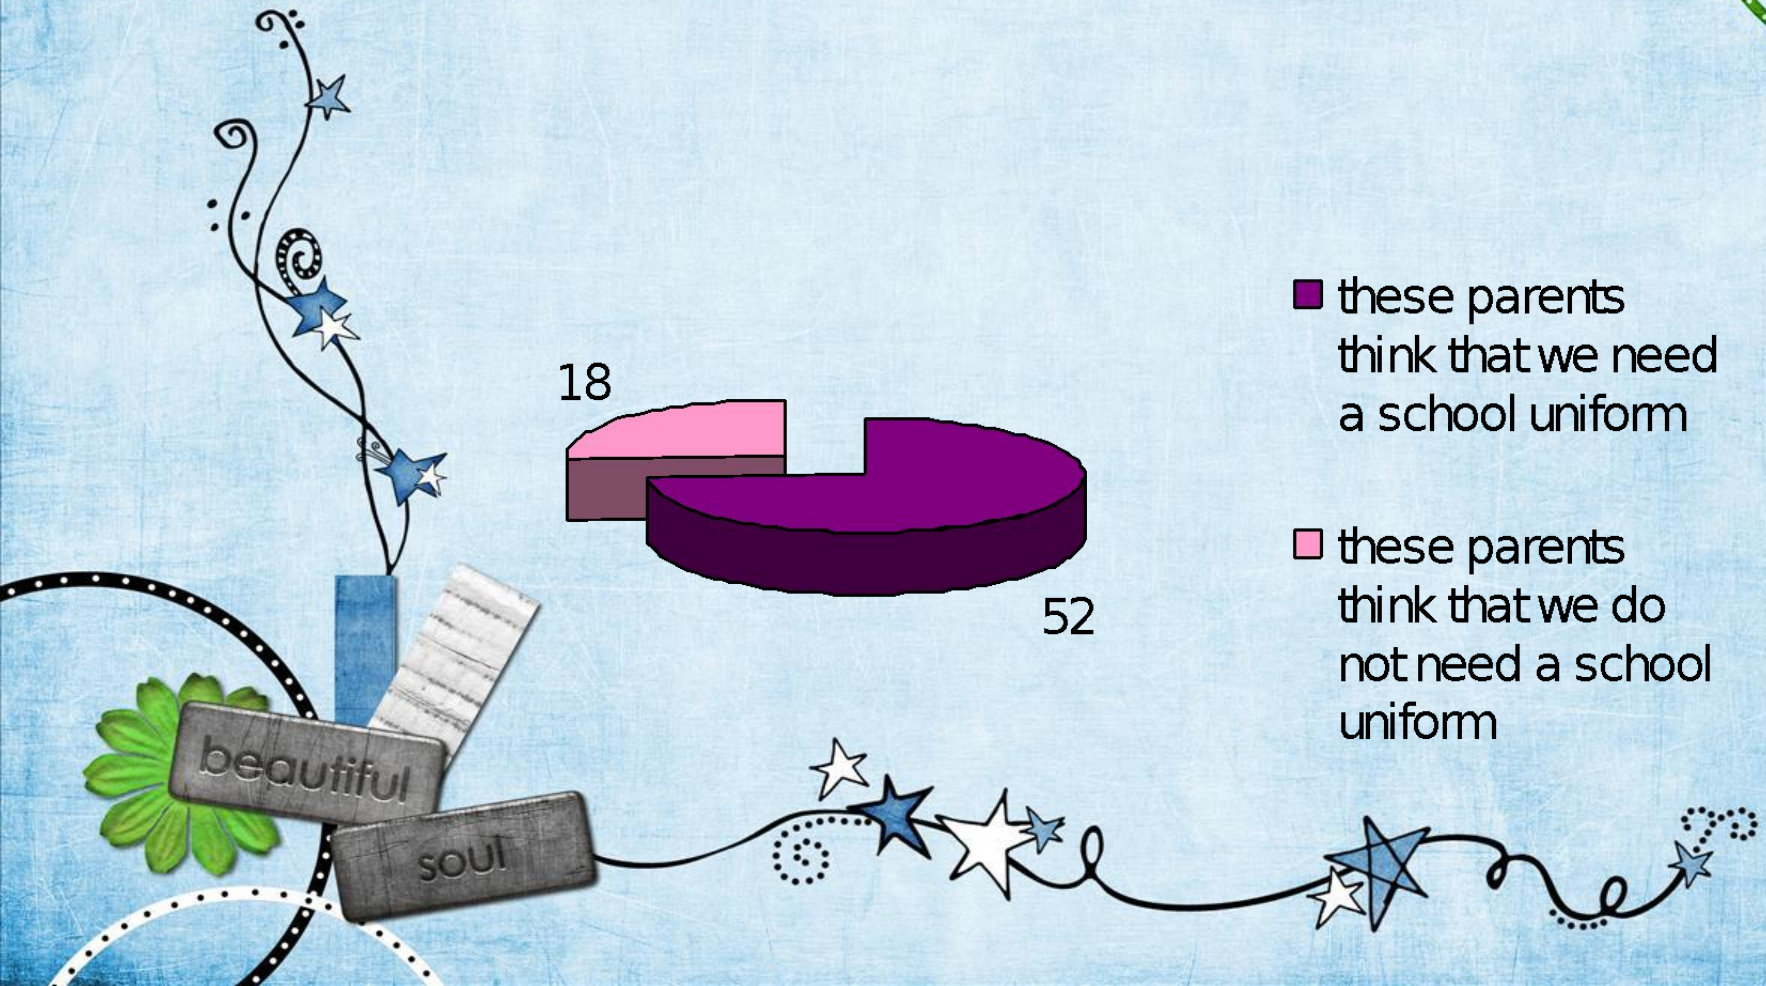

survey

- We asked 70 parents about a school uniform

■ these parents think that we need a school uniform

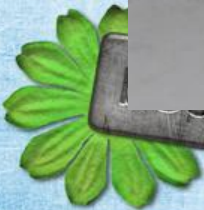

■ these parents think that we do not need a school uniform

Modern Tradition

- There is also modern-day tradition for girls to dress into brown Soviet-style school uniform for their graduation ceremony.

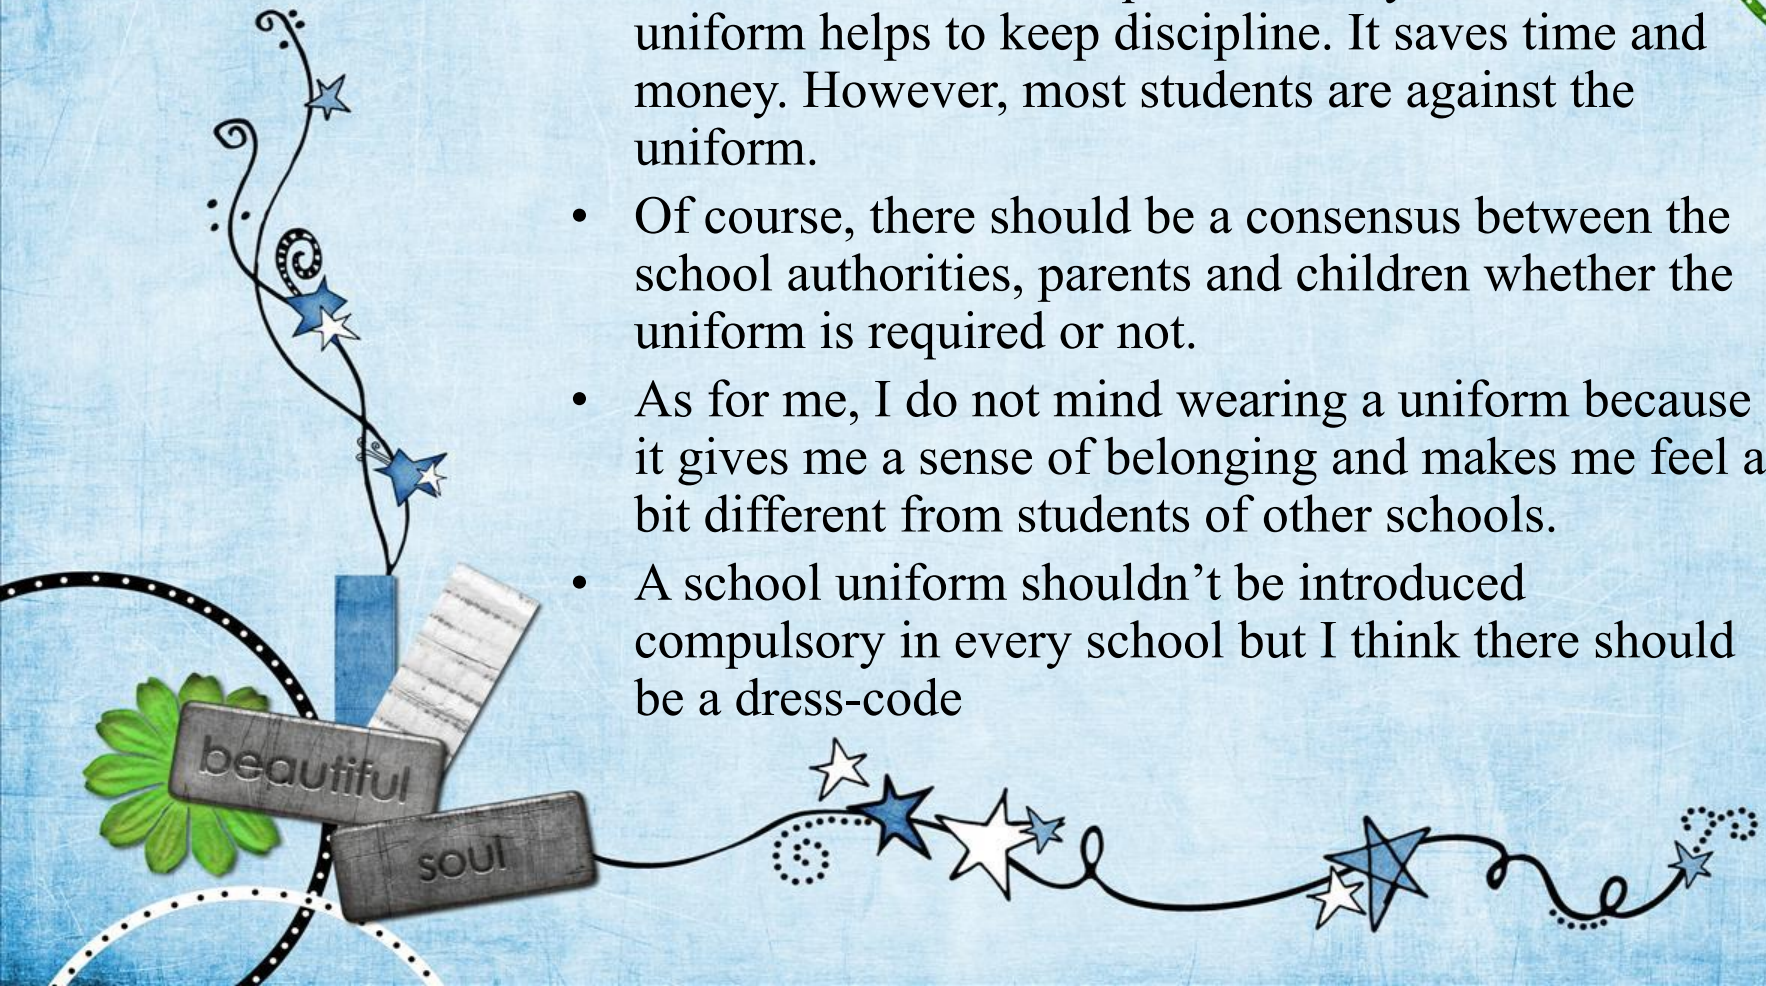

Parents believe uniforms promote good standards

- parents think that school uniforms improve discipline, helps raise standards and reduced peer pressure and bullying.

Conclusion.

- Our survey shows that the uniform is necessary to adults: to teachers and parents. They think the uniform helps to keep discipline. It saves time and money. However, most students are against the uniform.
- Of course, there should be a consensus between the school authorities, parents and children whether the uniform is required or not.
- As for me, I do not mind wearing a uniform because it gives me a sense of belonging and makes me feel a bit different from students of other schools.
- A school uniform shouldn't be introduced compulsory in every school but I think there should be a dress-code
