

Stray animals

rule the hosts

Animal Shelters

danger

Alexandr Omarov 9 «C»
School 329

Ethology homeless animals

Donald Griffin - American scientist, professor emeritus of Rockefeller University, back in the 70s made the official recognition of the animal senses, as well as a close similarity ways of thinking and emotional world of man and animal, thus made an invaluable contribution to the development of cognitive ethology

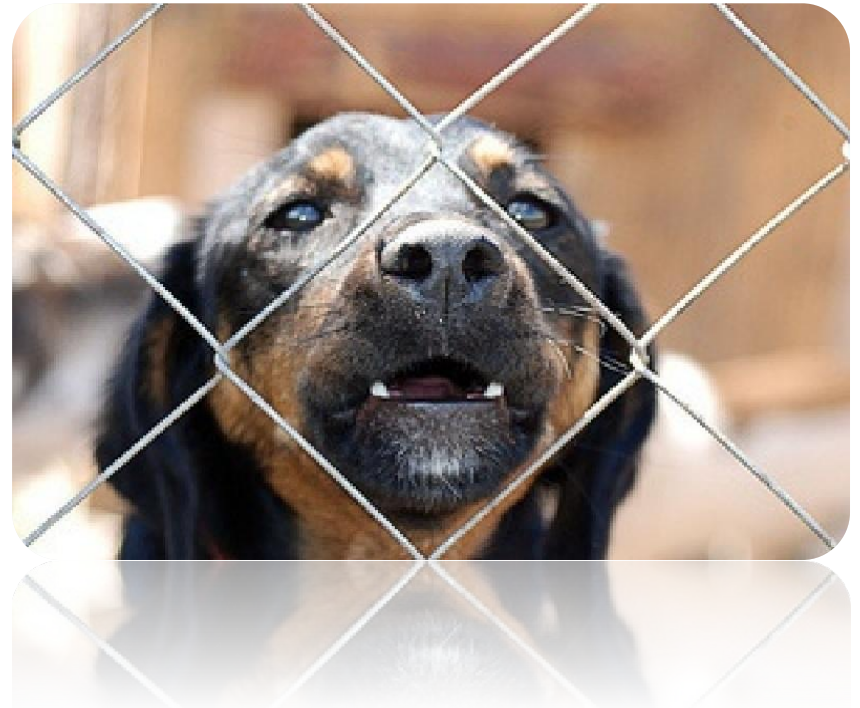

Rule the hosts

Remember - I'll never forget how I was treated

Animal Shelters

Actively act as clearing houses abandoned, including "extra" animal owners, and as centers of transfer animals to new owners in order to prevent possible replenish the population of stray animals

Danger from animals

One theory proposed by microbiologists at Hong Kong University, the first time people were infected with SARS, eating meat stray cats (that is practiced in China)

