The diagram shows an international airmail envelope with a red and blue striped border. On the left, a dark blue box contains the text "By air mail" and "Par avion". In the center, there is a red square stamp with a white letter "A" and the word "РОССИЯ" below it. The "From" and "To" addresses are written in black ink. On the right side, four white boxes with black borders are connected to the address by lines, indicating the parts of the address they represent: the recipient's name and surname, the house number and street name, the city and postcode, and the country name.
