

A photograph showing the aftermath of a flood in Genoa, Italy. The street is filled with muddy water and debris, including a white car partially submerged and a green hose. Buildings line the street, and a person is visible on a balcony in the background.

NATURAL DISASTERS

THE FLOOD IN GENOA

GENOA

An aerial photograph of Genoa, Italy, showing the city built on a hillside overlooking the sea. The harbor is filled with ships, and a prominent bridge spans across the water. The city is densely packed with buildings, and the surrounding area is green and hilly.

• Genoa is a beautiful city and an important seaport in northern Italy, the capital of the Province of Genoa and of the region of Liguria. The city has a population of about

The city's rich in art, music, architecture and history. In 2004 it was called the Capital of Culture.

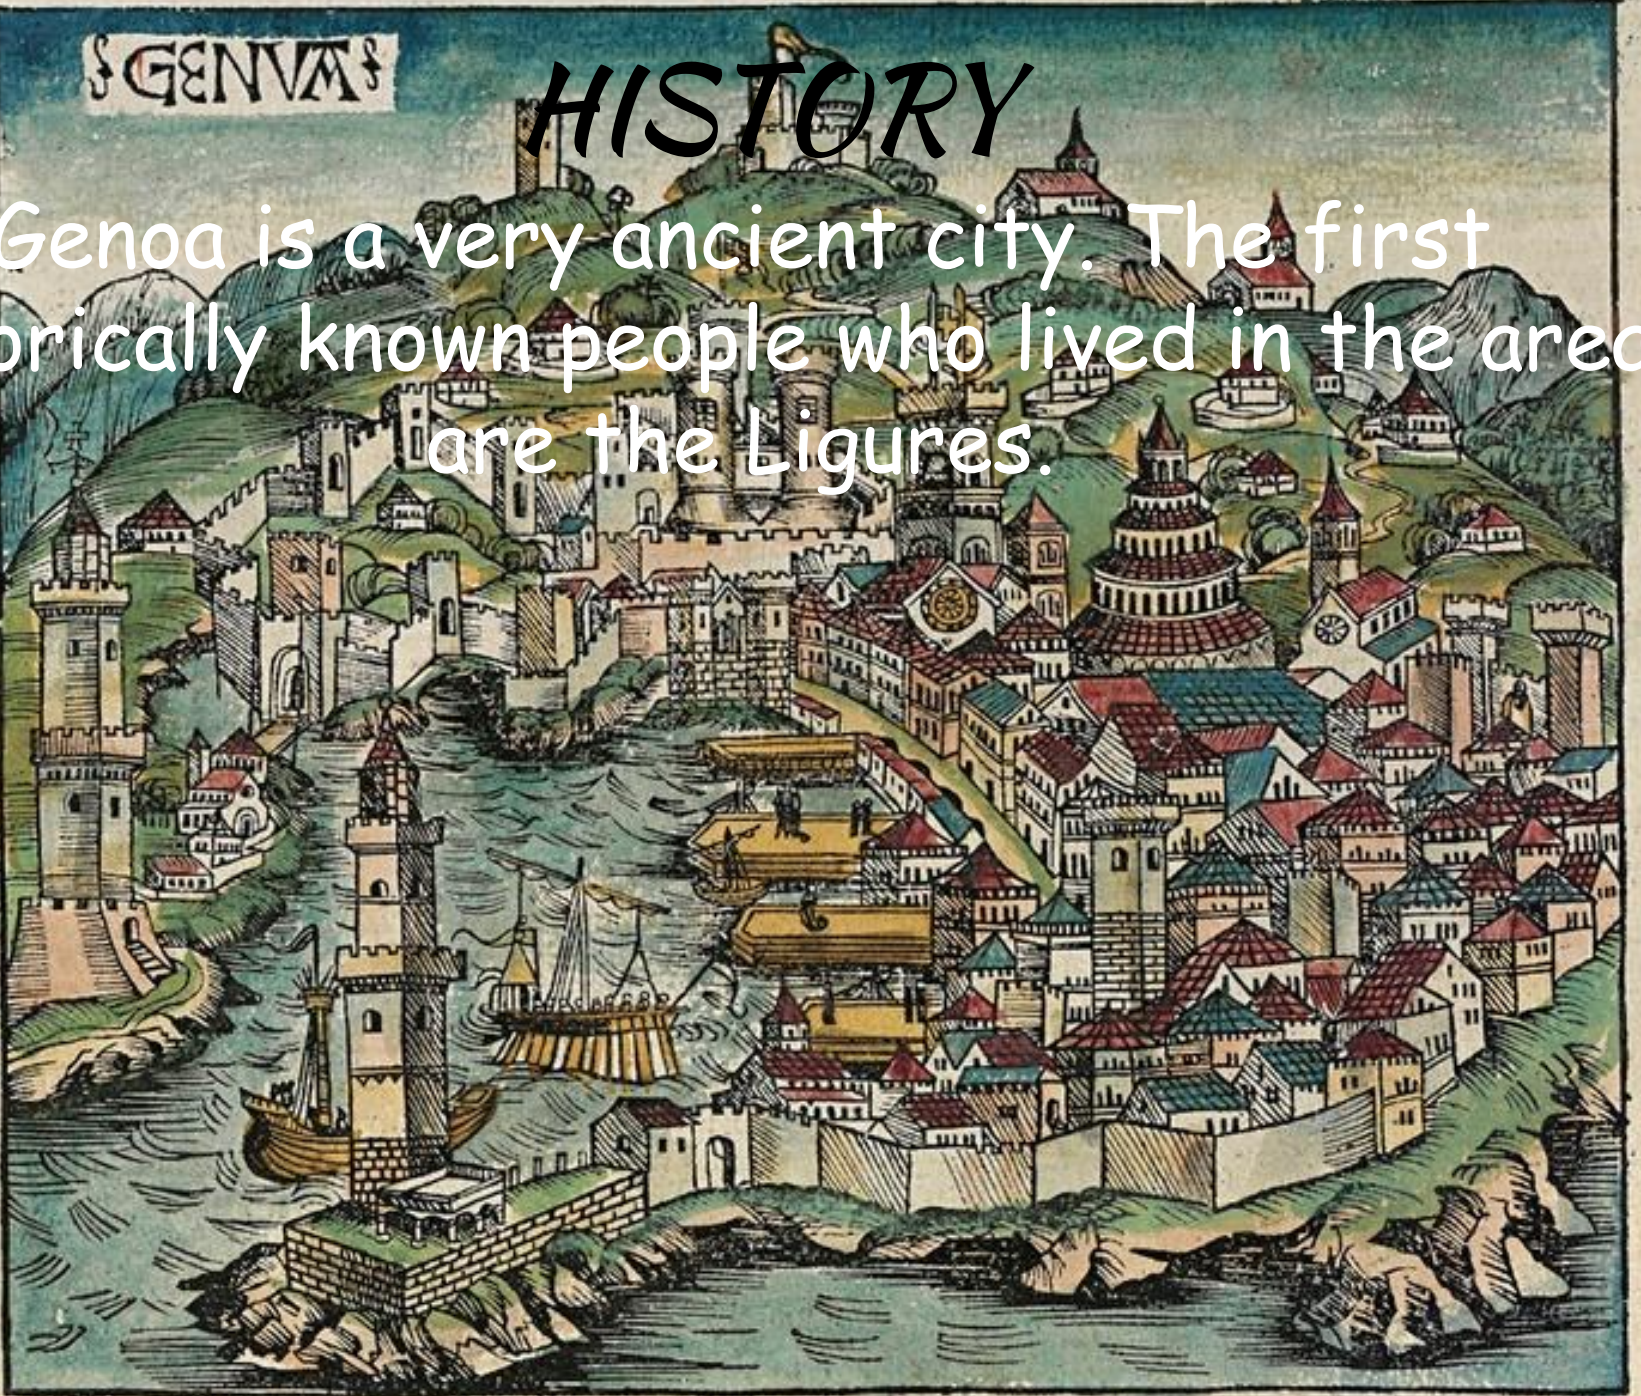

GENOVA

HISTORY

- Genoa is a very ancient city. The first historically known people who lived in the area are the Ligures.

WEATHER

Genoa has a Mediterranean climate and the wettest months are October and November.

Heavy Storms And Flooding Have Battled Northwestern Italy

On Friday, November, 4 the Italian port city of Genoa was hit by floods during heavy rainfall.

Up to 500 millimetres (20 inches) of rain fell in just a few hours overnight.

• Six people were killed, including two children by the flood.

Over 50 people were saved from the floods by firemen in rubber boats

Cars float in a
Genoa streets.
Lots of broken cars block the streets in the centre of the city.

• Hundreds of shops and buildings were flooded. Schools and museums were closed for a few days.

• Bridges were destroyed and trains blocked. The local airport was closed.

• Mud poured down from the hills sweeping away the fishing villages.

• The local government held a minute's silence on Wednesday for those who lost their lives in the floods.