3.Oil Rig Personnel

It is very much difficult to be in an offshore oil platform the middle of nowhere especially when you are doing a very difficult and dangerous job. You are literally on a cramped space where oil can literally rain down on you on a very good day. A daily 12-hour grind can even become more difficult with all the mechanical failures that you need to fix, much like what's being done in auto technician jobs. Despite the strenuous and back-breaking work, an oil rig personnel can rake in over $40,000 in annual pay.
