The rhinoceros is a large animal, and its skin is very thick and hard. It is covered in small, circular scales, which are arranged in a regular pattern. The rhinoceros has a single, large horn on its nose, which is made of a substance called keratin. The horn is very hard and can be used for defense. The rhinoceros is a herbivore, and it eats grass and other plants. It is found in the savannas of Africa and Asia. The rhinoceros is a very important animal, and it is one of the most endangered species in the world.
