The background of the slide is a blue-tinted photograph of an airport tarmac. Several aircraft are visible, including a large white jet in the foreground and other planes in the distance. Hangars and airport buildings are also visible in the background.

The birthday of the town is on 23 April 1947 in honor of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the main town-forming enterprise Central Airohydrodynamic Institute by Nikolai Yegorovich Zhukovsky. Since then, the whole life of the city and its inhabitants connected with aviation. In 2008, the city received the status of science city.
