Sport in Great Britain

- The British are known to be great sports-lovers, so when they are neither playing, nor watching games, they like to talk about them. Many of the games we play now have come from Britain.

Football / soccer

- Every Saturday from late August till the beginning of May, large crowds of people support their favourite sides in football grounds. True fans will travel from one end of the country to the other to see their team play. There are plenty of professional and amateur soccer clubs all over Britain. International football matches and the Cup Finals take place at Wembley.

Horse racing

- Next to football, the chief spectator sport in British life is horse-racing. A lot of people are interested in the races and risk money on the horse which they think will win. The Derby is perhaps the most famous single sporting event in the whole world.

Cricket

- One of the most British games is cricket. It is often played in schools, colleges, universities and by club teams all over the country. Summer isn't summer without cricket. To many Englishmen cricket is both a game and a standard of behaviour. When they consider anything unfair, they sometimes say: "That isn't cricket."

Tennis

- A great number of people play and watch tennis. Tennis tournaments at Wimbledon are known all over the world. The innumerable tennis courts of Britain are occupied by people between the ages of 16 and 60 who show every degree of skill — from practically helpless to the extremely able.

Golf

- Golf is one of the most popular outdoor sports in the world. It appeared in Great Britain too. It is played on a golf course. Players try to hit a golf ball into a small hole with as few strokes as possible. Millions of men and women around the world play golf for fun, thousands play tournaments and millions around the world watch golf on TV.

Rugby

- Rugby originated in England in the early 19th century and is very popular in the UK today.
- The most famous rugby union competition is the Six Nation Championship between England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, France and Italy.

The Highland Games

- Scottish Highland Game at which sports, dancing and piping competitions take place. They attract large numbers of spectators from all over the world. These meetings are held every year in different places in the Scottish Highlands. All competitors wear Highland dress.

Henley

Forget football, cricket, and rugby. English are not sport loving people but they are also very creative. Here are some rather more eccentric sports which take place and were created in Britain.

The background of the slide features two distinct images. On the left, a person is shown in silhouette riding a pogo stick. On the right, a man wearing a hat is shown in silhouette riding a motorized bicycle. The entire scene is set against a dark, monochromatic yellow background.

THE CRAZY SPORTS in Britain

AUNT SALLY is a traditional English game usually played in pub gardens and fairgrounds that dates back to the 17th century in which players throw sticks or batters at a model of an old woman's head.

BARREL WALKING to stand on top of a small barrel and walk it forward. The distance walked before falling off is taken, the largest collective distance of a team is the winner.

CHEESE-ROLLING – During the annual Cooper’s Hill Cheese Rolling and Wake, competitors race down a steep hill in Gloucestershire, attempting to catch a Double Gloucester cheese which has been set rolling from the top. Often this results in many injuries.

PANCAKE RACING – In which each participant carries a pancake in a frying pan. All the runners must toss their pancakes as they run and catch them in the frying pan.

"Man vs horse" In 1980, the landlord Gordon Green from Wales organized the annual marathon of the distance is 22 miles (42.195 km).

Horses are paired with their riders. Twenty-four years the competition was won by the rider and the horse. In 2004, the British Hugh Lobb overcame the distance in 2 hours 5 minutes and 19 seconds, for which he received 25,000 pounds of prize money.

COCONUT SHY – Each player has 6 balls to throw at targets of coconuts balanced on raised stands. The player with the highest number of hits wins. Often played at fetes or fairs, it's probably cheaper to go to the supermarket to buy a coconut, but not half as much fun.

CONKERS – A conker is the nut of the Common Horse-chestnut tree. It is used in a game traditionally played by children.

PEOPLE HERDING – A group of three people are blindfolded and each holds onto a central hoop. The fourth member of the team has a whistle, one short blast move to the left, two short blasts move to the right, a long continuing blast move forward. The object is to direct the hooped group through a gate or gatepost. The team with the shortest time wins.

DUCK HERDING

Very similar to people herding, only its ducks through the gate.

WELLY/WELLIE WANGING OR THROWING –

A freestyle sport that originated in Britain, most likely in the county of Yorkshire. Competitors are required to hurl a Wellington boot as far as possible within boundary lines, from a standing or running start. Each player has three throws, the longest distance thrown within the zone wins

WHEELBARROW AND STRAW BALE RACE – Each player in the team races over 50 yards with 4 straw bales on the barrow, then tosses the bales over
