

RALPH WALDO EMERSON

(May 25, 1803 – April 27, 1882) was an American essayist, philosopher, lecturer, and poet.

created by the student of 11th grade
gymnasium №2
Maria Khizhnyak

BIOGRAPHY

- Emerson was born in Boston, Massachusetts.
- He was son of Ruth Haskins and William Emerson.
- He was the second of five sons who survived into adulthood.
- His father died from stomach cancer on May 12, 1811.

BIOGRAPHY

- One of the greatest influence on his childhood was his aunt Mary Moody Emerson, a great lover of women Puritan culture.
- He studied at Harvard University.
- He studied theology at Harvard Divinity School and was ordained pastor in 1829.
- In 1829 he married Ellen Tucker. In 1831 she died of tuberculosis.

BIOGRAPHY

•A year later he abandoned his ecclesiastical career and moved to Europe, traveling in Italy, England, France and Scotland.

•In 1834 he returned to his country to settle in Concord, a town in which he lived with his second wife, Lydia Jackson, with whom he had married in 1835.

BIOGRAPHY

LIOTT & FR

Ralph Waldo Emerson

BRACE S.W.

• Along with his role as writer, cultivating poetry and essays, Ralph Waldo Emerson was an influential intellectual who also left their mark on European thought.

• He died of pneumonia in Concord, April 27, 1882. He was 78.

Famous Ralph Waldo Emerson quotes:

- ❖ Every man alone is sincere, as is a second person hypocrisy begins.
- ❖ The joy, the more you spend, the more it remains.
- ❖ Confidence in yourself is the first secret of success.
- ❖ It is a shame to wait till tomorrow

Emerson's works

- Emerson's first book, NATURE, (1836) a collection of essays (individualism and rejected traditional authority)
- His lectures 'The American Scholar' (1837) and 'Address at Divinity College' (1838)

Emerson's works

Essays: First Series, 1841

- I. "History"
- II. "Self-Reliance"
- III. "Compensation"
- IV. "Spiritual Laws"
- V. "Love"
- VI. "Friendship"
- VII. "Prudence"
- VIII. "Heroism"
- IX. "The Over-Soul"
- X. "Circles"
- XI. "Intellect"
- XII. "Art"

Essays: Second Series, 1844

- I. "The Poet"
- II. "Experience." Study text.
- III. "Character"
- IV. "Manners"
- V. "Gifts"
- VI. "Nature"
- VII. "Politics"
- VIII. "Nominalist and Realist"
"New England Reformers."

Famous Poems

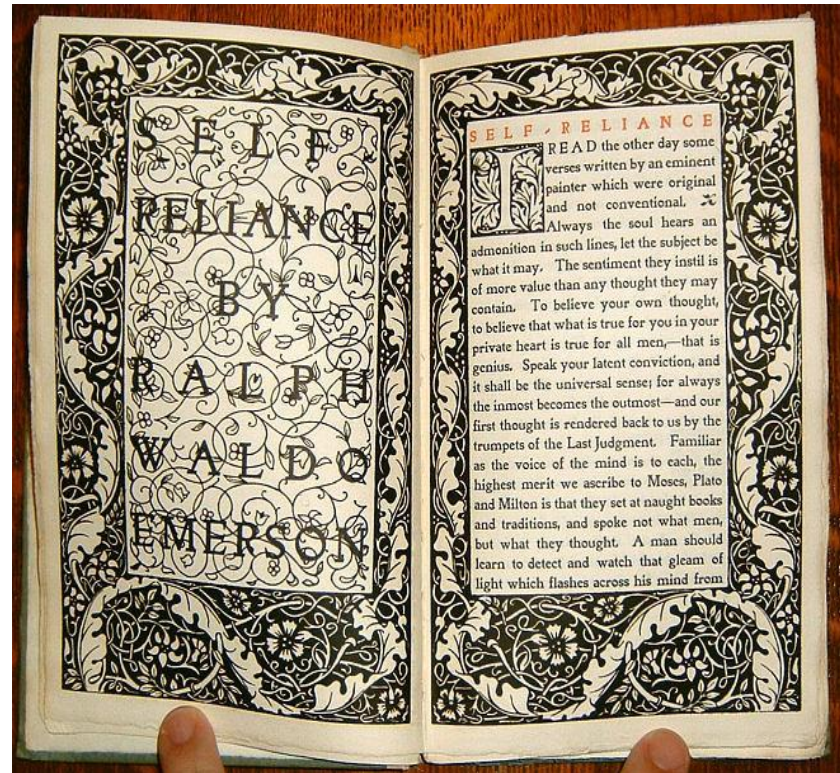

- ✿ Celestial Love
- ✿ Eros a poem
- ✿ The Rhodora (date of composition 1834/1839)
- ✿ Concord Hymn (1837)

*The Rhodora
On Being Asked,
Whence Is the Flower?*

Self-Reliance

Published in Essays (First Series) in 1841

Summary

Emerson begins "Self-Reliance" by defining genius: "To believe your own thought, to believe that what is true for you in your private heart is true for all men—that is genius." Every educated man, he writes, eventually realizes that "envy is ignorance" and that he must be truly himself. God has made each person unique and, by extension, given each person a unique work to do, Emerson holds. To trust one's own thoughts and put them into action is, in a very real sense, to hear and act on the voice of God.

Emerson adds that people must seek solitude to hear their own thoughts, because society, by its nature, coerces men to conform. He goes so far as to call society "a conspiracy against the manhood of every one of its members."

Self-Reliance - Themes

Individualism

Emerson repeatedly calls on individuals to value their own thoughts, opinions, and experiences above those presented to them by other individuals, society, and religion. This radical individualism springs from Emerson's belief that each individual is not just unique but divinely unique; i.e., each individual is a unique expression of God's creativity and will.

Trust Your Own Inner Voice

Emerson urges his readers to retain the outspokenness of a small child who freely speaks his mind. A child he has not yet been corrupted by adults who tell him to do otherwise. He also urges readers to avoid envying or imitating others viewed as models of perfection; instead, he says, readers should take pride in their own individuality and never be afraid to express their own original ideas.

Main message

Every individual possesses a unique genius, that can only be revealed when that individual has the courage to trust his or her own thoughts, attitudes, and inclinations against all public disapproval.

GENIUS: "To believe your own thought, to believe that what is true for you in your private heart is true for all men—that is genius"

Notable Quotations From "Self-Reliance"

- Trust thyself: every heart vibrates to that iron string.
- Whoso would be a man must be a nonconformist.
- What I must do is all that concerns me, not what the people think.
- Insist on yourself; never imitate.

