

Lewis Carroll (the pen-name
of Charles L.
Dodgson) was born in the village of Daresbury,
England, on January 27, 1832.

The eldest boy in a family of 11 children, Carroll was very good at mathematics and won many academic prizes. He was a photographer and wrote essays, political pamphlets and poetry.

Charles
Dodgson had no
family, but he loved children
very much. He often visited his
friend's family
where there were three little girls.

One of them
Alice was four years old.
Dodgson told her about the adventures of a little girl.
Alice liked the stories very much.

When Alice was about ten years old, she asked Charles to write down the stories.

He made a handwritten book for her and even draw pictures in it.

Charles decided to publish the book . The book came out in 1865 and all the people who read it liked it very much.

By the time of his death, Alice had become the most popular children's book in England, and now it is one of the most popular in the world.

A stylized illustration of a green lizard with long, thin legs and a long tail, perched on a wooden bridge. The bridge is made of two parallel wooden planks supported by vertical posts. The background features a stream with a dark, swirling pattern, surrounded by autumn foliage in shades of red, orange, and purple. The scene is set in a forest with a large, gnarled tree trunk on the left. The overall style is reminiscent of a children's book illustration.
