

A scenic landscape photograph of an autumn forest. The scene is bathed in the warm, golden light of a low sun, likely during sunrise or sunset. In the foreground, several trees with sparse, yellowing leaves stand on a ground covered in fallen leaves. A calm body of water, possibly a lake or a wide river, stretches across the middle ground, reflecting the soft light. In the background, rolling hills or mountains are visible under a pale, hazy sky. The overall mood is peaceful and serene.
