

The image features a detailed, monochromatic grey coat of arms of Russia centered on a dark blue background with a fine grid pattern. The coat of arms depicts a double-headed eagle with its wings spread wide. The eagle's chest is covered by a shield containing a figure of a knight on horseback, holding a spear and a shield. Above the eagle's heads are three crowns: a larger central crown and two smaller ones on either side. The eagle's right talon holds a scepter, and its left talon holds a globe with a cross on top. The entire emblem is rendered in a stylized, embossed-like manner.
