Yelp can tell you a lot more than just what people thought of a bar, restaurant, or just about any other place where you spend money. Many locations list hours of operation, contact information, and menus, making it easy to find the perfect spot in your neighborhood or a new city.

Free

Most running apps charge you lots of money to access training regimens. That's not the case with My Asics Run Coaching. This app, for both iPhone and Android, has customized plans for 5K, 10K, 5-mile, 10-mile, half-marathon, or marathon runs. It's also not on a fixed schedule. Instead, the app adjusts your plan based on your running data. This app will get you off the couch and on the road to victory.

In today's lazy-yet-busy world, it's difficult to find time to get to the gym to truly blast your abs. If you're trying to build your body, consider Runtastic's Six Pack Ab Workout app. It lets you create a customized workout to target the specific muscles you want to transform. Just follow the avatar on the screen through the moves

Apple Music brings the company's impressive musical catalog to Android. The app is built around Apple's subscription-based streaming service, which dishes up all-you-can listen music for $9.99 per month, or just $4.99 for eligible students. It suffers a bit on Android for being divorced from the Apple ecosystem, however.

The screenshot shows the Spotify mobile app interface. At the top, there's a search bar, an "UPGRADE" button, and a user profile icon labeled "Onde". The main content area features a "Happy Holidays" playlist presented by USPS. The playlist title is "Happy Holidays" with a subtitle "Spread some cheer with this list of new and old seasonal favorites." and "Created by: Spotify · 54 songs, 2 hr 32 min". Below the title are buttons for "PAUSE", "FOLLOWING", and a menu icon. A "Filter" search bar and a "Download" toggle are also visible. The playlist tracks are listed in a table:

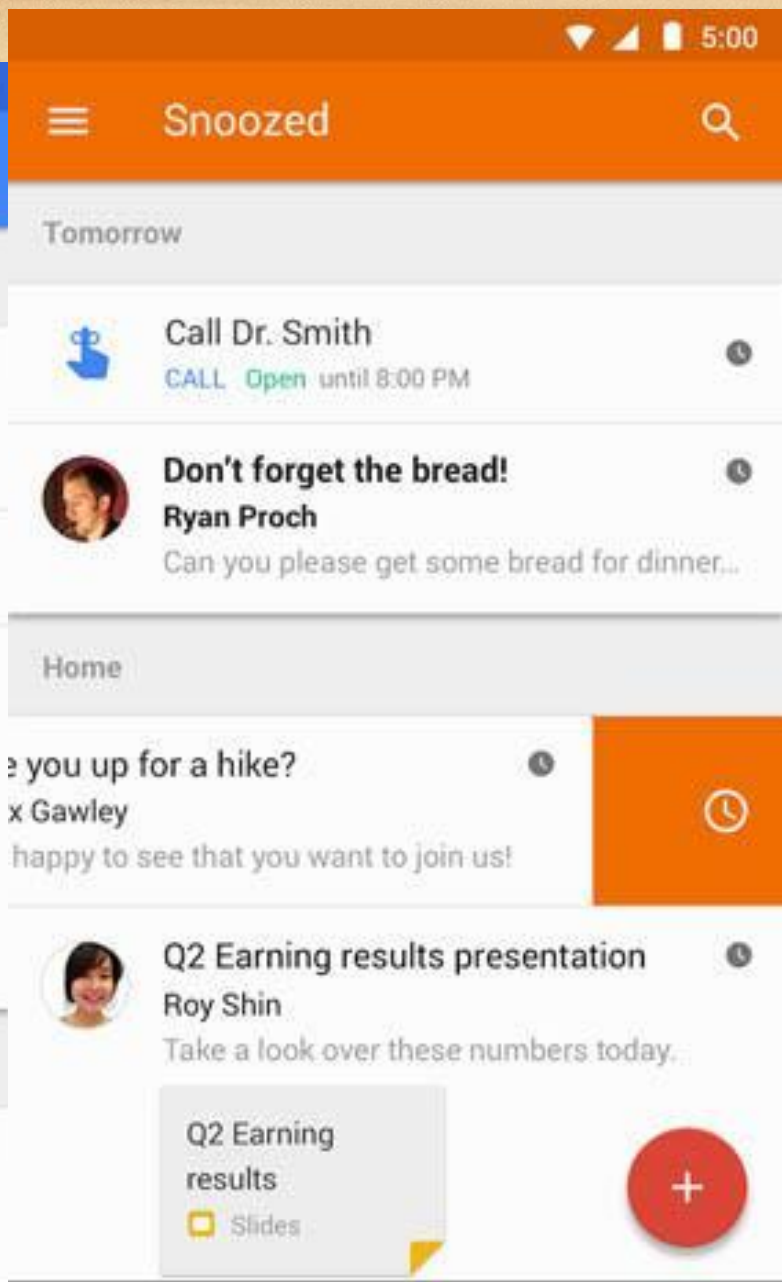

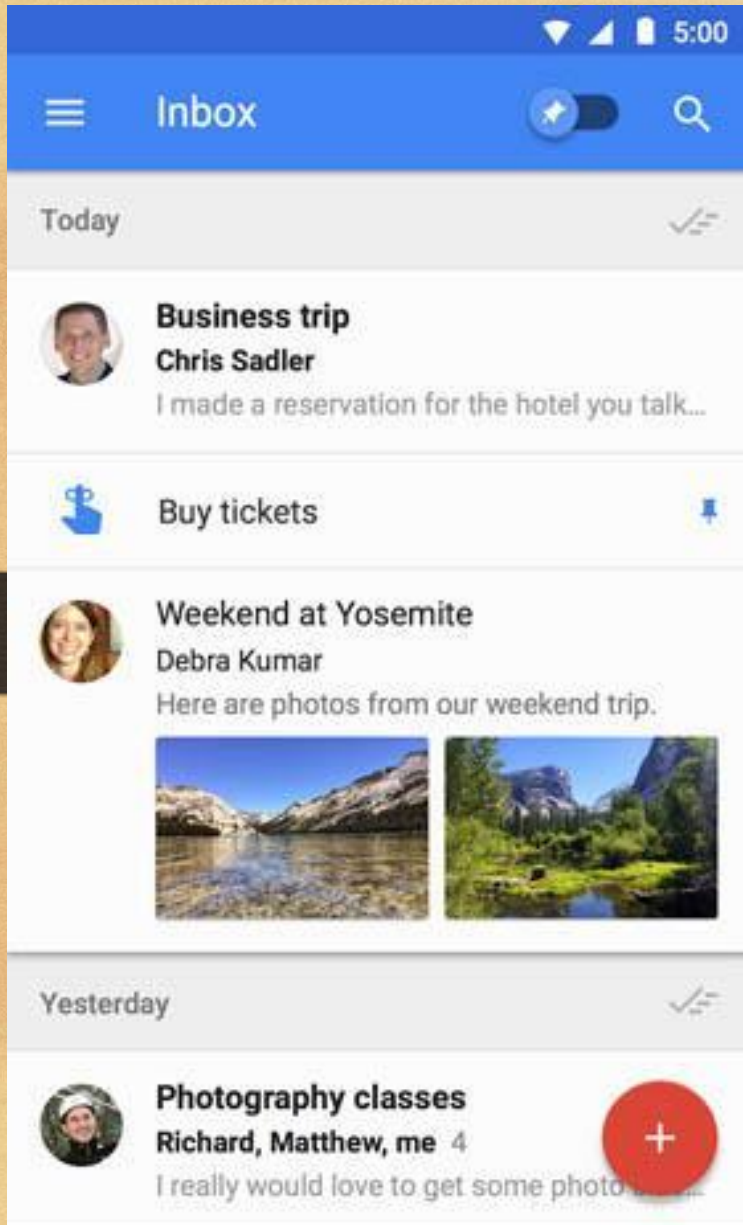

|                  | TITLE                              | ARTIST       |             |

| +                | All I Want for Christmas Is You    | Mariah Carey |             |
| +                | A Holly Jolly Christmas            | Burl Ives    |             |
| +                | Santa Baby                         | Eartha Kitt  |             |

With its huge inventory of music, Spotify has become a mainstay for free, legal music streaming. You can shuffle through smartly selected songs, find your favorite albums, or explore one of the service's excellent playlists. Close ties with artists means that new tracks are sometimes available the same day they hit the shelves in record shops

Inbox

by Gmail

Free

Inbox by Gmail isn't a tool for email power users. For everyone else, however, it's fantastic. Google took to heart the lessons of the Mailbox and offers a client for Gmail with gestures, reminders, and some of the tricks pioneered by productivity pros. Includes automatic package tracking, travel document detection, and the bundling of like emails. It also happens to be one of the best-looking material design apps to date.

Free

Google Photos can identify faces, even as they age over decades, as well as animals, places, or objects. You can also search for photos from specific dates or locations. The impressive built-in Assistant can detect clutter or even create collages or animations on its own. The app is rounded out with editing tools and unlimited cloud storage if you make some minor compromises on upload quality. Google Photos also extends to photo prints; you can digitize physical photos with the built-in Photoscan or even order a custom photo book. The recently announced Google Lens can even report back information related to your images or photos by scanning them
