eCitz online conferral application forms will be migrated to ImmiAccount.

After 17 April 2015, the eCitz platform will no longer support new or in-flight applications. Existing conferral applicants who have commenced and saved draft applications using the eCitz platform will lose their applications if they are not lodged before 17 April.

Citizenship

Movement of conferral applications forms to ImmiAccount will have a number of benefits, including:

- Online conferral application fields will be pre-populated using data previously entered within the online application form
- Applicants will have greater security through a password protected ImmiAccount
- Applicants can upload their facial image (front of an endorsed photograph) as part of the application

What do I need to do before April 17, 2015?

BR2 Preparation

There are a few things you can do on April 16 to ensure a smooth transition, including:

- Where possible, submit any applications that have a status of Ready to Submit. You will not lose these applications on April 17, but you will have to step through each page and answer any questions that have changed if you submit them after that date.
- Complete as many eCitz applications that have been commenced or saved as a draft as possible, as these applications will have to be re-entered into ImmiAccount following April 17.

ImmiAccount support page

The screenshot shows the top of a web page with a blue header containing the breadcrumb "Home > Online Services > ImmiAccount". Below the header is the "ImmiAccount" title and a grey box with a warning message: "For detailed information about planned system maintenance or technical issues including known system errors see System maintenance and technical issues." A "Login to ImmiAccount" button is present. The main content area explains that ImmiAccount is the "front door" to online services and lists various tasks users can perform, such as applying for visas, accessing health declarations, and updating passport details. There are three tabs: "Accessing ImmiAccount", "Available services", and "Help". The "Accessing ImmiAccount" tab is active, showing text about two types of users: "Individual/private user" and "Organisation". Below this is a paragraph explaining that individuals can create an account immediately, while organisations need approval. At the bottom of the content area are two links: "Create an ImmiAccount (individuals)" and "Register for an ImmiAccount (organisations)", with an "Expand headings" button to the right. The footer contains the text "Last modified Monday 30 March 2015", a "Provide feedback on this page" link, and social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn.

ImmiAccount

For detailed information about planned system maintenance or technical issues including known system errors see System maintenance and technical issues.

→ Login to ImmiAccount

ImmiAccount is the 'front door' to our online services. You need to use ImmiAccount if you want to:

- apply for a visa or Citizenship by Descent online
- access the My Health Declarations service
- continue a saved online application
- import a paper application (service available for certain visa subclasses only)
- attach documents to an online or imported paper application
- consent to using eMedical and answer medical related questions where required
- check the progress of an online or imported paper application
- update passport details online
- change email and address details online
- access Visa Entitlement Verification Online (VEVO) (service available for organisations only).

Accessing ImmiAccount Available services Help

There are two types of ImmiAccount:

- Individual/private user: for individual applicants, a family member or friend to apply for a visa or citizenship
- Organisation: for organisations and agents applying for visa or citizenship or checking visa entitlements on behalf of others.

Individuals can create an ImmiAccount and get started straight away. Organisations and agents need to register for an ImmiAccount and have their access approved by the department before they can create an account.
