About

- The London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE) is one of the foremost social science universities in the world. LSE is both a company limited by guarantee and an exempt charity.

History of LSE

- LSE was founded in 1895. The decision to create the School was made by four Fabians at a breakfast party at Borough Farm. The four were Beatrice and Sidney Webb, Graham Wallas and George Bernard Shaw. The School's motto was adopted in February 1922. Suggested by Professor Edwin Cannan from Virgil's Georgics, the phrase rerum cognoscere causas means to know the causes of things. The industrious beaver emblem was chosen in the same year.

Study

- Currently, the school on a permanent basis (full-time) has about 9,000 students from around the world. Educational structure of the LSE includes 23 departments.
