HISTORY OF SCHOOL FORM IN RUSSIA

- Many people ask the question: "Who came up with this general shape?" Really, who? Peter I. Peter the Great was a very versatile person, and probably was not the area in which he had not spent the reforms.
- 1834 - passed a law approving the general system of civilian uniforms in the empire. This system includes the gymnasium and student uniforms.
- 1834 - passed a law approving the general system of civilian uniforms in the empire. This system includes the gymnasium and student uniforms.
- 1949 - it was decided to return to the former way: boys dressed in military shirt with collar small stands, girls - in a brown wool dress with a black apron, which is almost completely copied the form of pre-revolutionary Russian girls' school.

HISTORY OF SCHOOL FORM IN RUSSIA

1973 - introduced a new form for boys. Blue-wool suit fabric, decorated with the emblem and aluminum buttons. The cut jacket resembled the classic denim jacket (in the world gained momentum so called Denim) with epaulettes on the shoulders and breast pockets with flaps in the form of a brace. In boys, seniors jacket was replaced by a jacket.

1988 - some schools were allowed to experiment in order to abandon the mandatory wearing of school uniforms.

1992 - the abolition of school uniforms in Russian schools.

FORM AROUND THE WORLD

- ▣ In Japan, school uniform has suddenly become a benchmark of teenage fashion. Now the girls are out of school that resembles a familiar form of Japanese schoolgirls: "Sailor-fuku", in our opinion - sailor, navy blue pleated mini skirt, high, knee-length socks and matching loafers. Boys are "gakuran": trousers and a dark jacket with stand-up collar.
- ▣ In America, students wear uniforms prestigious private schools for the children of wealthy parents.
- ▣ In Africa, schoolgirls ban mini-skirts.
- ▣ In Russia, as always, your way. While she was looking for him, children grow ...

FORM AROUND THE WORLD

- ❑ Each prestigious British school has its own logo, reproduced on the ties of students. So, shirts and ties, blazers and hats - a standard set for young Britons.
- ❑ In Australia, the children go to school in jeans and jerseys, economic classes - future financiers - wear a formal suit.
- ❑ In Iran, elementary school student is allowed to wear a cape is not black or brown, but lighter colors, others wear the veil.

However, it is worth noting that approximately half of all pupils say: student's form of reduced social inequalities between students.
