

A soldier in a gas mask and military gear, holding a rifle, standing in a post-apocalyptic setting with barbed wire and a dilapidated building in the background. The scene is lit with a warm, yellowish glow, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The soldier is wearing a green gas mask with a filter, a dark hood, and a military jacket with a patch on the sleeve. The rifle has a wooden stock and a metal barrel. The background shows a large, multi-story building with a complex metal structure, possibly a factory or a government building, and a field of tall grass. The overall atmosphere is one of tension and survival.
