Who was John Dillinger?

- a. Flirt
- b. Bank Robber
- c. Legend
- d. Murderer
- e. All of the Above

During a crime spree lasting from September 1933 to July 1934, John Dillinger's gang killed ten men, wounded seven more, robbed seventeen banks, and staged three jail breaks.

The Dillinger gang was mobile, disciplined, and highly organized. Local police could not touch them. They were among a number of criminal gangs that rose to national prominence at the same time, prompting the Justice Department's Bureau of Investigation (later renamed the Federal Bureau of Investigation) to launch an all-out war on crime.

The public viewed John Dillinger as a romantic and exciting public figure. He charmed his cohorts, the press, and even his victims. Dillinger collected his press clippings, carrying copies in his pockets. He actively honed his media image, creating a signature style that included leaping over bank counters and dressing in fashionable clothing.

The Justice Department named Dillinger America's first Public Enemy Number One on June 22, 1934—his 31st birthday—and laid a $10,000 reward on his head. Exactly one month later, they got their man.

ORIGINAL DEATH MASK & HAIR

This plaster casting was one of the originals prepared from Dilingers body at the Cook County Morgue. Purportedly, the FBI confiscated the first mold, but others were taken without their knowledge.

FOOTPRINTS

DID YOU KNOW?

Although fingerprints receive the most attention, footprint evidence has been submitted in U.S. courts since 1934.

Just like your fingerprints, there are distinct patterns on the soles and toes of your feet, which are completely unique to you.

While "Footprints" don't get a lot of respect, the military has used impressions of the soles of flight instructors on the same feet to better protect and preserve their hands in the event of a crash or fire.

SHOE PRINTS

Each shoe has a unique pattern on the sole. This pattern can be used to identify a shoe. The FBI Laboratory has a database of shoe prints from all over the world. This database is used to identify shoes that have been found at crime scenes.

CRIME & PUNISHMENT IN THE DARK AGES

NECK VIOLIN

A portable lute with a single or double course, specifically designed for blind musicians.

It is considered an age before enlightenment that afforded most an inhuman and sometimes savage existence.

It was the time of the Spanish Inquisition and the Tower of London.

In the same time, governments were reforming laws, composing courts and devising punishments to fit crimes, all in the name of establishing justice.

The punishments for even the pettiest crimes could be severe and often violent.
